ENTIRE REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET WINS BY PLURALITIES OF FROM 1,300 TO OVER 6,000

Country Districts Piled Up Big Vote Against All Candidates of the Machine. State Nominees Get Over 60,000.

MANY DEMOCRATS DID NOT VOTE

The Gazette's Recapitulation of the Allegheny County Vote

Shows That All the Republican Candidates Were Safely Elected Tuesday and That a Plurality of Over 60,000 Was Given State Ticket.

The following table gives a recapitulation of the vote cast in Allegheny county on Tuesday, so far as the returns have been received. Only 12 of the 604 precincts in the county are missing, and these will not materially change the totals; if anything, they will increase the pluralities given the Republican candidates.

Pluralities	60,746		7,795		1,291		3,470		6,490

Of the precincts missing eight of them are in the townships. These same districts in the last gubernatorial election gave Pennypacker 970 votes and Pattison 328 votes, a plurality for Pennypacker of 650. The other missing precincts are in the cities. In previous elections the results in them have been such as to warrant the prediction that in this contest they will about balance. In no case can they wipe out the increased Republican pluralities looked for when the eight missing precincts are reported in from the townships, and accordingly the probabilities are that when the vote has been officially tabulated and published the Republican pluralities will be found to be anywhere from 500 to 600 stronger than they now show in the above table.

Poor Director Redman is handsomely re-elected by the boroughs and townships. The vote cast for poor director in McKeesport is not included in the above table, but as the vote in that city was about evenly divided between the Republican and Citizen-Democrat candidates, it is fair to assume that the result when officially known will increase Director Redman's vote. The cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny are excepted from the provisions of the act creating poor directors, and no votes were cast for that office in those two cities.

Every candidate on the Republican county ticket has been elected by pluralities ranging from 6,500 to 1,300. The Republican state candidates will have leads of almost 61,000. This is the largest plurality ever given in the county, surpassing the excess vote for Gov. S. W. Pennypacker by over 12,000. The total poll will be about 102,000, or 12,000 less than last fall.

The officials elected are Dr. James W. Dickson of Allegheny, sheriff; Maj. Robert E. Stewart of Braddock, district attorney; Maj. J. B. Hamilton of Elizabeth, prothonotary; Frank T. Redman of Braddock, director of the poor; John Harvey of Pittsburgh and Cornelius Casey of Sharpsburg, jury commissioners. Casey is a Democrat.

The Gazette in its last edition of yesterday showed that Brown, fusion candidate for sheriff, led Dickson, Republican, by 192, with 150 country districts to hear from. The great majority of these precincts was known to be inhabited by loyal Republicans, and it was not difficult to see how Brown's small plurality would be wiped out and a substantial Republican majority obtained. The Gazette predicted this result, and the prediction has been borne out by the returns.

The prothonotary's office became the headquarters yesterday for the leaders on all sides. It was there that the returns for the country districts were received. By shortly after noon the Citizens were convinced that they had been defeated.

The effort to throw votes to Goehring, the fusion candidate for district attorney, did not result successfully. He will not lead Brown over 1,000 votes.

Verner Conceded Defeat.

Although Murry A. Verner, chairman, and James W. Clark, secretary of the Citizens committee, retired soon after midnight Tuesday still claiming the election, they saw early in the day that they were hoping against hope. Neither of them went to the Citizens headquarters all day long, and thus avoided hearing some things that were loudly discussed by the workers. The chief grievance was that the Citizens had caused dissatisfaction by the distribution of the places and the alliance with the select council combine.

Verner and Clark realized that the result would be learned soonest at the prothonotary's office, and thither they went early. At 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon Verner walked out of the court house and, seeing D. L. Gillespie, one of the Republican leaders, he said:

"It's all off, Linn. You win."

At 2 o'clock Clark saw Gillespie in the court house.

"I guess the Republicans win by about 800 majority," said Clark.

"Yes, by about 2,500," retorted Gillespie.

The Citizens leaders then disappeared from public view. At the headquarters in Third avenue there was every indication that there had been a death.

Republicans Are Happy.

There was no gloom in the Smithfield street headquarters, where the Republican campaign was managed. The rooms were thronged all day. Hundreds of men called to congratulate the managers on the great victory. Incidents of the fight were told. From all parts of the city came evidence that Verner's few words concerning the Baltimore & Ohio ordinances had much to do with causing voters to return to the Republican fold. Some of the select council combine members dropped in to find words of encouragement and left rather discouraged.

M. G. Leslie, chairman of the Republican city committee, had this to say of Tuesday's victory:

"The success of the Republican party in obtaining the few offices at issue insure decent government not only in the county but in Pittsburgh and Allegheny as well. You must consider that of the county offices the district attorneyship and the shrievalty are the most important ones, and the Republicans have secured those. It is generally the case that when the minority party—and the Republicans have been in the minority in the last few elections—obtains the dominant offices the majority party is put upon its good behavior. The Republican party will see that the people get good government. The victory is a Republican victory, but it is also a victory for the people. That fact will be appreciated by the Republican

Chairman Thomas J. Ford Tells How the Republicans Achieved the Great Victory in the County

Thomas J. Ford, chairman of the Republican county committee, last night made this statement:

"Allegheny county is normally Republican. Unless influenced by an exceptional condition, it will give a majority for the Republican ticket. No such condition existed in the present campaign. There was no reason justifying any Republican voting other than the Republican ticket.

"The Citizens party had so violated its pledges and so boldly defied public opinion that it forfeited the confidence of the people of the county. The most potent factor in securing the Republican victory was the universal interest displayed by the members of the district, ward, borough and township committees in their respective districts.

"In addition, the activity of the soldiers of the civil and Spanish-American wars and the Sons of Veterans was of unquestioned value. The Soldiers' Civic league was at all times earnest and zealous in behalf of the ticket.

"The Republican party can strengthen itself by avoiding the mistakes which characterized the Citizens-Democratic party. Every plank in the Republican platform, every promise it made, should be carried out to the letter. The officers-elect should discharge their duties in behalf of the people only, irrespective of the effect of such a policy upon individuals, upon factions and even upon the party itself."

Chairman Ford added that the fact that the Republican organization was so liberal in its rules and cordially invited all elements of the party to act in harmony with it had a good effect and contributed largely to the victory.

Thomas S. Bigelow and Murry A. Verner, chairman of the Citizens county committee, say that they will make statements today.

TWO MORE SLAIN BY AN ASSASSIN

Murderer of Armenians Commits Suicide When Cornered.

A LONDON MYSTERY

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

London, Nov. 4.—An individual, said to be the murderer of Sagatel Sagouni, president of the Armenian revolutionary society, who was assassinated on October 26, shot and mortally wounded two Armenians close to the headquarters of the Hentchaklist society in Peckham Rye today and then shot himself.

After failing to kill Ghabertian, the murderer ran some distance, but finding himself cornered, he shot himself once in the neck and then through his heart. The names of the murdered Armenians were Aram Grigerian and Sigran Samdian, both members of the Armenian central committee which has been in session here.

They were walking with a companion named Rouben Ghabertian toward their headquarters, when the assassin, who was armed with two revolvers, came up behind and shot them. They fell to the ground and died immediately. Ghabertian was grazed by one of the murderer's bullets.

The murderer resembles the description given of the murderer of Sagouni, except that the former was clean shaved. The police believe the suicide shaved off his mustache after Sagouni's murder.

TALK OF HANNA FOR PRESIDENT

Ohio Victory Revives Boom for the Senator from Cleveland.

HE DISCOURAGES IT

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Cleveland, O., Nov. 4.—The overwhelming victory of Senator Hanna in Ohio on election day has caused his friends to revive the talk that he ought to head the Republican national ticket next year.

It looks very much as if Hanna would be a strong opponent of President Roosevelt for the nomination if he would consent to have his name entered. When asked about it today, Senator Hanna said:

"The result of the election in Ohio yesterday in no wise changes my opinion in reference to my proposed candidacy for the presidency, of which position the public has been fully advised."

If Senator Hanna absolutely refuses to enter against Roosevelt it is certain that Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland, the governor of Ohio elected yesterday, will be pushed forward as Roosevelt's running mate, as his great majority makes him a strong man in his party and Hanna has already intimated that he would be a good man for vice president.

If Senator Hanna absolutely refuses to enter against Roosevelt it is certain that Col. Myron T. Herrick will be pushed for vice president.

UNITED STATES TAKES A HAND

Colombia Must Cease the Bombardment of Panama.

SQUADRONS' ORDERS

Admiral Glass Is Commanded to Proceed to the Scene of Revolution.

NEW REPUBLIC PROCLAIMED

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Room 10, Postal Building, Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.

With a strong hand, the United States today began the discharge of its treaty obligations to preserve free transit across the Isthmus, where the revolutionists' party yesterday proclaimed the independent Republic of Panama.

Remonstrance against the bombardment of Panama by the Colombian gunboat Bogota was followed by orders for Rear Admiral Glass, commanding the Pacific squadron, to proceed from Acapulco toward Panama, stopping at San Juan del Sur, Nicaragua, for further orders. Doubtless before the week is out seven American warships will be lying on either side of the strip through which the canal concession extends.

On a map at the state department a pencil line was drawn today across the Isthmus at the Gulf of Darien, showing what the revolutionists propose to make the southern border of their longed for new sovereign state. The northern boundary will be the present boundary between Colombia and Costa Rica.

If the revolt proves more than a "high hall" insurrection it is the preponderance of official and diplomatic corps opinion in Washington that the revolutionists will be successful.

Have Aid of Canal Company.

The revolution has two powerful assets unpossessed by the hitherto more or less easily suppressed insurrections on the Isthmus. The first of these is the active aid and co-operation of the French Panama Canal Company, agents of which seeing little chance of ratification by the Colombian congress of a Panama canal treaty which would enable them to turn over their concessions to the United States for $40,000,000 predicted months ago that an independent republic would be established on the Isthmus ready to allow the United States to construct the canal on liberal terms.

The intimation was thrown out here today that William Nelson Crowell, of New York, counsel of the French company, instead of being in Paris, as recently reported, was really on the Isthmus, bearing a leading part in the direction of the revolution. It is believed by many here that the Panama company stands ready to extend great assistance in the shape of money and ammunition even if it has not already done so.

One Chinaman Killed.

Secretary Hay, when he arrived at the state department this morning, received from the navy department this telegram which came to the bureau of navigation from Commander John Hubbard, of the gunboat Nashville at Colon:

"The Colombian gunboat Panama has thrown several shells into the city of Panama, killing one Chinaman."

This information was duplicated by a cable dispatch to the state department from United States Consul Ehrman, at Panama. Secretary Hay at once went to the White House and conferred with the president. The two agreed that bombardment of Panama, an unprotected port, should not be permitted. Mr. Hay returned to the state department and Mr. Ehrman was instructed by cable to remonstrate to the commander of the Bogota against bombardment of the city, both because it is not defended and because bombardment would probably injure the Panama railroad terminal and interfere with the United States treaty obligation to preserve its transit uninterrupted.

"Keep the transit across the Isthmus uninterrupted. Preserve the peace and prevent bloodshed."

Such is the substance of the instructions which have been sent to American naval commanders and consuls on the Isthmus.

Independence Without Bloodshed.

COLON, Nov. 4.—Without the firing of a shot and amid scenes of great enthusiasm the independence of the Isthmus and the department of Panama was delivered last evening.

The city of Panama is now in the hands of the revolutionists and no serious attempt has been made to recapture it. The Colombian gunboat Bogota arrived in the harbor after the declaration of independence and threw a few shells into the city without doing damage to life or property. Perfect order prevails in Colon tonight and trans-Isthmian trains are running, as usual, without interruption. In Panama the flag of the new republic—in colors of red, white and blue—floats over the government buildings.

The movement for independence has been in progress since the rejection by the congress at Bogota of the Hay-Herran canal treaty, but its sudden ripening last night was due to the news of the unexpected arrival at Colon of the Colombian gunboat Cartagena with Generals Tovar and Amaya and a number of troops. The movement has been promoted by prominent and wealthy Isthmians and Gov.

SIX KILLED BY AN EXPLOSION

Ten Others Are Hurt by Bursting Shells in Arsenal in Hudson River.

FIRE ADDS HORROR

Attaches of Garrison Forced to Fight Flames Amidst Rain of Steel.

SEVERAL TOWNS ARE SHAKEN

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

Long Island, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Six men were killed and 10 slightly injured this afternoon by an explosion at the United States naval arsenal, one of the largest magazines in the United States, which is located here.

The explosion occurred while men were drawing the explosive charges from a consignment of old shells recently sent here from the battleship Massachusetts. Three massive shell houses were completely destroyed and a rain of fragments of projectiles of all sizes was scattered in every direction.

The force of the explosion, or series of explosions, broke windows in Peekskill, three miles below on the opposite side of the Hudson, and the detonation was heard for many miles. Adjacent buildings, including two storehouses for fixed ammunition, were riddled with the fragments, and the quarters of the 31 largest buildings composing the garrison were completely demolished.

The dead, all of whom were workmen employed by the naval ordnance department, are:

FRED WARD, Stony Point.
GEORGE MORNHEAD, Tarrytown.
FRED G. LOCKE, Peekskill.
PATRICK CURRAN, West Haverstraw.
FELIX BROWN, Haverstraw.
JAMES CONNELLY, Peekskill.

The bodies were frightfully mangled, fragments being buried hundreds of feet.

The island, which has been used as an arsenal for a year, is in the Hudson river, 40 miles from New York. Shells and ammunition were stored there. The detonation of a shell being exploded in shell house No. 1 exploded the other shells in the house, and the fragments of shells driven into the adjoining houses expanded their contents.

There were two main explosions, within an interval of several minutes, and a succession of minor ones as individual shells went off. Fire then followed and for several hours the marines fought the flames in immediate danger from constantly exploding shells. Physicians and nurses from West Point, Peekskill and Haverstraw hurried to the island and attended to the injured, one of whom was seriously hurt.

No statement of the amount of explosives on the island could be obtained from Gunner Fries, U. S. N., in command, but it is said that a large consignment of shells from the Alabama, Massachusetts and Illinois were in the buildings destroyed. About 400 13-inch shells were on hand, it is said. A large amount of fixed ammunition stored in two buildings from which the roofs were blown did not explode, and the two main powder magazines were at the other end of the island out of danger.

REPUBLICANS REJECT THE OFFER OF HARMONY

Addicks and Allee, However, Still Have Hopes of Unity in Delaware.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

DOVER, DEL., Nov. 4.—The meeting called for today by United States Senator Frank Allee with the view of harmonizing the factions of the Republican party for the presidential fight of 1904 was attended only by union (Addicks) Republicans. There were 135 men in the gathering. Senator Allee presented the following letter from J. Edward Addicks:

"Do not permit the loyalty of my friends to me and their wish to gratify any legitimate ambition I may have to militate against a harmonious organization and union of the factions of the party."

Further efforts will be made to bring about a union of the factions and the meeting adopted propositions to be offered to the regular Republicans. They propose common primaries for the purpose of electing delegates to the next state convention and contemplate the selection by the convention of one state central committee to consist of six regulars and six union Republicans to conduct the campaign of 1904 and also the selection of six national convention delegates, three from each faction.

WRECK KILLED ONE AND HURT FIFTY-FOUR OTHERS

Disastrous Smash-Up on a Trolley Road During the Heavy Fog Yesterday.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

KANSAS CITY, MO., Nov. 4.—One person was killed, 31 injured, 2 perhaps fatally, in the collision of two cable cars in a fog today. On the steep Troost avenue viaduct. Most of the injured were shop girls on their way from their homes in Kansas City, Kan.

The dead girl, Nellie Lancaster, was found buried beneath the debris of the wrecked trains. A small piece of steel had been driven into the girl's skull between the eyes.

Of the injured, Carrie Mooney and Herman Watkins, will die. Seventeen others were more or less seriously hurt, five of them sustaining broken bones. The other 34 injured sustained only minor cuts and bruises.

The Gazette's Great News Victory Parallels That of the Republicans

Those who yesterday wanted to know the result of the election found that they had to get The Gazette. The other papers told their readers that there was an election, but none of them said who won the county fight. The Gazette did. In its early edition it showed that the Republicans had overwhelmed the Citizens party, and in the later editions, when complete figures for three cities were at hand, it gave totals to prove its claim. Of the other papers one made a ridiculous statement that the Citizens had won by 5,000; another said that "if" such and so happened some party might win, while a third, feeling that the Republicans had won was afraid to say so. But The Gazette told its thousands of readers the truth; showed figures which were convincing, and boldly claimed a victory because it knew the Republicans were victors.

This result was not obtained in any haphazard manner but was simply the outcome of intelligent handling of the news by a staff of experienced newspaper men. The tables of votes were complete earlier than in any other paper, they told their own story and were so plainly set forth that no effort on the part of the reader was necessary to see what happened.

It was a great victory for the Republicans; it was as great a victory for The Gazette as a newspaper, and as showing that The Gazette was appreciated, it was necessary to print an additional supply of papers as late as 10 o'clock.

If you want the news, when it is news, you must get The Gazette.

ALL THE OFF-YEAR RECORDS BROKEN

Republican Majority Yesterday Stands Unequaled in History of Commonwealth.

PENROSE ELATED AT RESULT

All the Important Contests Won, Excepting the Clearfield Judiciary Fight. Several Striking Incidents Connected With Yesterday's Battle of the Ballots.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Press Building.
PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 4.

Senator Boies Penrose, Republican state chairman, is in a very complacent frame of mind. He is in the position of the man who makes use of the more or less familiar phrase: "I told you so."

Since the senator returned from his summer vacation, in the wilds of British Columbia, and assumed direction of the Republican state committee, he has made and reiterated the prediction that Pennsylvania would, this fall, give the largest off-year Republican majority in the history of the commonwealth. This prophecy was verified yesterday.

"My reports indicate that the Republican plurality in the state will be between 220,000 and 230,000," said the chairman tonight to The Gazette correspondent.

"The Republicans have won every important contest except the judicial fight in Clearfield county. Fusion has met defeat. Party regularity and party unity, have been indorsed. Republicans have reasserted their allegiance to the will of the majority as expressed at party primaries and in the party caucus.

"Pennsylvania," continued the senator, "by its vote yesterday, maintains its position at the head of prosperity states and is in a position of potential influence when the presidential battle of next year opens. There are a few striking incidents in yesterday's victory.

"A Republican judge was elected in Bucks county by a plurality of 1,500. Not for 20 years has a Republican been elected to the bench in Bucks. In 1896 McKinley carried Lehigh county. Since then no Republican has been elected to a county office. Luzerne county, also a Democratic stronghold, is now Republican by a decisive majority.

"The Gazette may say that the Republican state organization, and its chairman, are greatly gratified over the result. The party has nobly responded in the skirmish preliminary to the battle next year."

Insurance Commissioner Durham left tonight for Hot Springs, Va. He will be gone 10 days or two weeks.

"The Republican organization of Philadelphia," said Mr. Durham, "was never stronger, more united, and more harmonious than now. The majority it polled yesterday would seem to indicate that it enjoys the confidence of the people. This I base upon the greatest of all off-year majorities."

Chairman Penrose goes Sunday to Washington, but he expects to make weekly visits to Philadelphia. Col. W. W. Andrews returned today from Meadville, where he went to vote. He will accompany Chairman Penrose to the capital.

RETURNS FROM THE PRECINTS OUTSIDE THE THREE CITIES

Republican Success in Allegheny County Was Made Certain by the Reliable Voters of the Country Districts.

The election figures from the boroughs and townships of Allegheny county as taken from the "out side" tally sheets that were filed in the prothonotary's office yesterday, will be found in the table below. Reports were not received from eight of the precincts in the townships. These are Fawn, the first precinct of Forward, Franklin; the first and second precincts of Harrison, Marshall; the second precinct of Mifflin and the third precinct of North Versailles. These eight precincts in the last general election gave Pennypacker 979 votes and Pattison 923 votes, a Republican lead of 650. It is believed that the same ratio will be preserved this time. The figures from the boroughs and townships follow:

INK MARK OVER HEART A TARGET

St. Louis Man Shoots Himself in Hotel Because of Separation from Wife.

MARRIED ONLY A SHORT TIME

After Telling He Rings for Bell Boy, Summons a Doctor and Wires Home. Although He Crossed His Heart the Bullet Went Wild—May Cause Death.

If death does not claim its own E. S. Platt of St. Louis, who lies at the Homeopathic hospital suffering from a self-inflicted pistol wound, may today be reunited to his wife. The estrangement led him yesterday afternoon, in a room at the Duquesne hotel, to deliberately encircle the location of his heart with ink, and, placing the muzzle of a revolver in the center of the black target, fire. After summoning aid, his first words were of his wife, and a telegram was sent requesting her to come to him at once. At the hospital he hovers between life and death, for the bullet plowed through the left lung, missing the heart by the fraction of an inch, and was removed under the flesh at the back.

Platt, who is only 30 years of age and a successful contractor and builder of brick plants, some years ago wooed a beautiful young woman of a Missouri town and recently they were married. They lived together only for a short time, however, being separated through a mutual understanding that was said to be no concern of the public. Young Platt mourned his loss. The sympathy of friends made him wildly unhappy until, unable to regain peace of mind without the one object of his desire, he determined to commit suicide.

Deed Probably Premeditated.

Platt came to Pittsburgh the middle of last week, ostensibly to confer with officials of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, one of whom he met on Thursday. On Saturday he registered at the Duquesne hotel. It is believed that he came here having already made up his mind to end his life.

Tuesday night Platt retired about 8 o'clock, awoke comparatively early yesterday morning, left the hotel for several hours and between 1 and 2 o'clock retired to his room. Nothing was seen or heard of him until at 2:30 o'clock, when there was a quick ring of the office bell, which registered Platt's room. William Durham, a hall boy, answered the call.

Upon entering the room the boy found the guest reclining on the bed, a part of his body being covered with a blood-stained sheet.

"Get a doctor," exclaimed Platt, breathless and with some effort, "I've shot myself."

Dr. W. T. English, the house physician, was summoned, and after hastily examining the man, had him sent to the hospital. Before leaving his room Platt asked that his luggage be locked and several letters, which he had just written, be placed in his pocket. This was done and the letters, intended for his last, are still in his possession. There were two of them, one being addressed to his wife and the other to his father, A. B. Platt, of No. 4132 West Pine street, St. Louis.

At the hospital it was found that before firing the shot, Platt had drawn a circle with black ink over his heart, which he used as a mark. Before undergoing an operation he said that he had counted up so many ribs and drawn with his finger the black circle.

Dr. English succeeded in removing the bullet, which was of 32 caliber, fired from a large Colt's revolver, from under the flesh on the back. The patient directed that a number of telegrams be sent, one of which was to his wife. It is believed that she will visit her husband at the hospital, when a reconciliation will be reached.

A telegram from the man's father last night instructed Supt. Bechtel of the hospital to give every care possible. Several officials of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company made inquiries as to his condition, although they say they did not know the object of his visit to this city.

At the hospital late last night it was said that it more hemorrhages do not set in the chances for recovery will be much better.

A special dispatch from St. Louis to The Gazette last night said: Platt left St. Louis on September 15, after divorce proceedings had been instituted by his wife, who refused to discuss the attempted suicide of her husband tonight. E. S. Platt was married about two years ago to Miss Lula Dustin, a St. Louis society belle. Their life was never happy. Early this spring he filed proceedings alleging that Mrs. Platt had a bad temper and that they could not get along together on account of religious differences. A month afterwards, he dismissed the divorce proceedings. Mrs. Platt then filed her divorce suit and was granted alimony of $12 a week until the case was settled.

After Mrs. Platt had filed proceedings her husband filed a confession of judgment in favor of her father, Under this judgment a levy was made upon the household goods of the house in which Mr. and Mrs. Platt had lived during their married life.

The furnishings were left at Mrs. Platt's home for several days under a guard. They were then removed to the courthouse and sold.

VOTERS INTIMIDATED BY THE CITY POLICE

Arrested as Suspicious Persons to Prevent Them from Casting Their Ballots.

Frank Murray and Benjamin Truhart, colored Republicans, were discharged from custody by Magistrate Thomas P. Stewart yesterday. Truhart was a Republican watcher at the polls in the Fourth district of the Seventh ward and attempted to vouch for Murray. They were arrested and charged with trying to vote illegally, but Alderman James C. Connor discharged them. They were arrested again when trying to vote and lodged in police station No. 2, charged with being suspicious persons, and bail was refused. Murray and Truhart will probably bring suit for false arrest.

The hearing was begun at the regular time but was adjourned to 10 p. m., in the magistrate's private office. George Elliott and others testified that the men were well-known as respectable colored citizens and when they were discharged Elliott remarked to Constable James Glenn, a Citizens party worker, who was supposed to be instrumental in causing the arrests, that he couldn't do as much for him as he could. Glenn rushed at Elliott with clenched fists, but was held back.

Philip Lewis and John Green, negroes, and William Neeland, a fireman, had been arrested by Policeman Jacob Rohers on a charge of disorderly conduct for fighting at the polls in Hazel street. When the men were called at the hearing Neeland did not respond. Policeman Rogers was astonished, but it was learned that Neeland was at the hospital, seriously hurt by a bolt, with which Lewis is said to have struck him. The woman was arrested late yesterday morning and sent to jail to await the result of the injuries inflicted on Neeland.

Ralston School Board Organized.

The new school board of the Ralston sub-districts Ninth and Tenth wards, met last night in accordance with the order of court appointing them. All were present. The board organized by electing William Zeuger, president; W. J. Kner, secretary, and John Coll, treasurer. Considerable time was devoted to discussing the sanitary condition of the building, and the matter was finally referred to a committee. Several members were present with a view of acting on the work, but the opportunity was not given them.

ORPHANS PUT ON THEIR WAR PAINT

Secessionists from the Citizens Party Will Open Their Campaign Next Monday.

FIVE OF THEM HAVE DESERTED

Messrs. Schad, Soffel, Beehner, Shearer and McNeil Worked for Bigelow Ticket—Broke Pledges Not to Participate in Campaign.

The Citizens party organization in the Pittsburgh councils is badly demoralized by the crushing rebuke administered their leaders at the polls. The "orphans" are correspondingly encouraged, and they declare their intention of at once putting into effect an elaborate reform program for the purpose of strengthening themselves at the election next February. Councils meet next Monday, and the "orphans" announce that they will start the ball rolling then.

The "orphans" claim a share of the credit for the defeat of the Citizens on Tuesday, and they look upon the result as an indorsement of their course in seceding from the Citizens party. They now claim to be the legitimate successors to the reform element of the Citizens party and will proceed at once to establish the basis of a new party by advocating such legislation in councils as will strengthen their position.

The first move the "orphans" will probably take will be in the direction of aiding the Republicans to secure a pure water supply for the city. The Bigelow resolution providing for the appointment of three experts to verify the figures of the director of public works is still pending in common council. The resolution gives the finance committee the power to employ the experts. The committee is controlled by the "orphans," and they have announced that they will give the experts larger powers than the Citizens party leaders intended.

Orphans Prepare Program.

W. H. Stevenson, the leader of the "orphans" in councils, has stated that the finance committee is not only to pass upon Director Bigelow's figures, but to furnish their own estimates of the cost of a sand filtration plant for Pittsburgh. The Republicans insisted upon this being done at the outset, an amendment to this effect being proposed in common council by J. C. Wasson, but was voted down. It is probable that the same amendment may be presented again next Monday night.

While the "orphans" have gained strength by the result of the election Tuesday, there are at least five of their number that can no longer claim the right to membership. Jacob Soffel, Jr., of the Thirty second ward came out for the whole Citizens ticket in a speech a few days before the election. Charles C. Schad of the Thirteenth ward worked for the Citizens ticket and assisted in rolling up a majority in his ward. Dr. George W. McNeil of the Twenty-first ward was also in line for the Citizens ticket and presided at a political meeting shortly before the election.

W. H. Beehner of the Twenty-third ward disappointed his fellow "orphans" and his constituents by coming out in a signed statement, a few days before the election, declaring for the Citizens ticket, and stating that the Citizens party leaders were not responsible for the holdup of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad ordinances. The vote of the Twenty-third ward on Tuesday showed what his constituents thought of Mr. Beehner and his statement.

Five Orphans Deserted.

J. W. Shearer of the Thirty-seventh ward was another "orphan" who forgot his pledge and did what he could to elect the Citizens ticket. The remainder of the "orphans" refrained from active participation in the election and claim credit for being consistent, although several more admit they voted the Citizens ticket.

Much of the responsibility for the defeat of the Citizens rests with their organization in councils and the failure of the party to pass the legislation to which it was pledged. The majority of the Citizens party councilmen, including the select council coupling, blindly obeyed the will of their leaders, and not only broke their pledges, but engaged in the holdup of important measures.

Hungarians to Erect Church.

The Hungarian Reformed church of Homestead, yesterday purchased two lots in Tenth avenue, facing Dixon street, of Lloyd & Lessig, for $14,250. The Rev. Alexander Harsanyi is pastor of the church. Work will commence immediately on the foundations. The new church will cost $20,000. The congregation now numbers from 500 to 600 and is but four months old.

Woman Fighter Arrested.

Mrs. Corg Lewis of No. 1232 Hazel street was arrested yesterday, charged with assisting her husband in an assault upon Fireman William Neeland, during an election row in the Second district of the Seventh ward. Man and wife are negroes. Neeland is in Mercy hospital with serious injuries.

OFFICERS ARE PUZZLED BY STORY OF MURDER

Slav Boarding House Keeper Is Placed Under Arrest Because of His Silence.

That Ivan Kovochich was shot to death near Blair station, Jefferson township, is certain, but who killed him is not known. Michael Bancan, keeper of the boarding house in which Kovochich was murdered is in jail on suspicion of being the murderer, and three of his boarders, Frank Bering, Frank Sabot and Kasatvian, are detained as witnesses. All the men are Slavs.

County Detectives John W. Reed and George Schad, and Deputy Coroner J. P. Loughrey, made an investigation yesterday. Bancan was telling a story of how Kovochich had been shot while struggling with a negro burglar about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, when his wife interrupted him and after that he would not speak.

Kovochich had been shot in the left side, the bullet plowing through the kidneys and intestines, causing almost instant death. Another bullet missed its mark and lodged in the wall of the room. The course taken by the latter bullet in the plaster would indicate that the victim had been shot by a man standing on the window sill, opposite the wall, or that he had stood on a little bench, which is underneath the window. This would make it seem as if the man had really been shot by an intruder.

A Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston brakeman told the officers that he saw a negro coming from the direction of Bancan's house about the time the shooting occurred.

Bancan's complicated story, and his refusal to speak after his wife interrupted him, caused his arrest. Bancan recently served 10 days in jail for assaulting a foreigner with a poker. The house where the shooting took place is full of revolvers, knives, knuckles and other dangerous weapons. The dead man has a family in Europe.

Fire Destroys Montrose Plant.

Fire destroyed the rope and twine manufacturing plant of John Flocker & Co. at Montrose and damaged two houses owned by the company, yesterday. The loss is placed at $25,000, partly covered by insurance. Alexander and Albert Flocker, members of the firm, which conducts a store at No. 618 Liberty avenue, were called from the store to the plant and gave the estimate of the damage. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Burglars in Y. W. C. A. Building.

Burglars looted the matron's room in the Young Women's Christian association building, No. 120 Fifth street, Tuesday evening. They secured nearly $100 and several pieces of jewelry belonging to the matron and the waitresses. No other room was entered.

THE ANGELUS

THE ANGELUS DOES NOT PLAY THE PIANO

It is a common error to suppose that the Angelus is a mechanical device that actually plays the piano. As a matter of fact, the Angelus is only the means by which you or anybody else can play the piano better than it would be possible otherwise for anyone to play it. It enables one without experience or technical knowledge of music to produce results far excelling the best efforts of the trained musician who lacks the aid of the Angelus.

The history of music is a story of progression from the crude and simple to more complex instruments with a constantly increasing power and range of expression. The coming of the Angelus marked the greatest advance of all. It is a far cry from the piano and the pipe organ to the flute and the lyre. And yet the advent of the Angelus marks a still greater step in the art of music.

The Angelus enables you to play any kind of music on any make of piano.

Come in and try it.

The Great Projects of This Store

In these days we do things on a colossal scale. Gigantic mergers are incident to Pittsburg. Catching the spirit of merging we have thrown into one vast whole those allied departments, China, Bric-a-Brac and Cut Glass.

We doubt if there is such another handsomely appointed department in the country as that now occupied by these goods, taking up almost the entire third floor, East Store. The fixtures are suggestive of elegance, the innumerable cases and cabinets being finished in Flemish as well as the special showroom for the home of the finer wares.

The brilliance of the lights, the sparkling of the cut glass, the radiance of highly-colored crystals, the prettily arranged exhibits of different chinas, conspire to form one of the most meritorious displays of the decorative and practical in pottery and glass, bronze and marble, ever attempted anywhere.

New subjects from all over the world are being received daily, especially many unique decorative pieces in terra cotta.

All in all this department is one in which everybody will be interested—the housewife who merely wants a plate or two to replace those carelessly broken, the connoisseur who seeks the rare in high art.

As showing the splendidly low prices operative in this department, the few brief paragraphs below are given as reference.

Children's Mush and Milk Sets, plate, bowl, pitcher, 25c the set, worth 50c. Only 300 of them.

35c each for Daffodil Jugs, use them for milk or cider or water.

50c each for fine Plates that sold for 75c and $1.00.

$1 each for very fine Plates that sold for $1.25, $1.50 and $1.75.

50c for Cups and Saucers of fine China that sold for 75c and $1.00.

$1.00 for finest china Cups and Saucers that sold for $1.25 and $1.50.

Half prices for open stock dinner ware of English Porcelain in wall blue.

From one-third to one-half off of fine French China Dinner Ware, sold as open stock.

Lace Dress Nets.

Lately we came across a beautiful lot of fine dress nets, and they arrived yesterday. These nets are 44 inches wide, and come only in black.

As black dress nets are the most preferred this will be good news, more especially when we tell you that the regular prices are from $1.50 to $3.00 a yard.

Don't know how the owner came to favor us with such a big concession, but he did, and we have pleasure in saying that today they will be sold for

$1.00 a yard and up to $2.00

Scarcely necessary to throw out the hint to be early for these.

Women's and Children's Shoes.

Of the women's shoes we speak here only of finest grades. As to that excellent shoe for $3.00, Queen Quality, women know that we carry complete lines and that we are sole agents for Greater Pittsburg.

Thursday, November 5, 1903.

Founder's day dawns once more upon a greater and better Carnegie institute and upon a Pittsburgh public more than ever appreciative of the artistic and literary feast that has been collected for them. This day marks the opening of the annual exhibition of paintings that has attracted the attention of the art world and evoked the commendation of artists everywhere. The principal orator on this occasion is Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university, and those who hear him will enjoy a rare treat. Prof. Wilson is a profound scholar and entertaining speaker, and he has something to say to the people of Pittsburgh who are interested in the growing institute at Schenley park.

There is an indication of prosperity in the statistics of the 57 new national banks organized during October. Of this total 50 are located in the south and west and only seven in the east. Until the very last of October, at least, the depreciation of Wall street values had not caused important shrinkage of commercial or industrial activity in the south and west, and those sections were busy organizing small banks to facilitate the transaction of their business. Crops in the south are the best for a number of years, and in the west they are up to the average, so there is every reason why those sections shoul continue prosperous, regardless of flurries in the stock markets.

A little comparison and analysis of the figures will not hurt. The total vote in Allegheny county on the state tickets Tuesday was about 98,000, as against 114,906 a year ago. Nearly all of the decrease was on the Democratic side. The total vote for Joel G. Hill was 18,603. That for Robert E. Pattison a year ago was 31,600. The vote for Mathues was 79,349, as compared with 80,131 for Pennypacker for governor. Thus it appears 12,000 Democrats must have kept away from the polls. Contrary to the ordinary rule the vote on the county tickets was larger than on the state tickets. Thus the total on sheriff was nearly 102,000, or about 4,000 larger than on state offices. Obviously the voters had no trouble in marking the new ballots just as they wanted them.

There will be great public interest in the next meetings of Pittsburgh city councils. The organs of the Democratic-Citizens machine which did all they could to make the people believe there was something worthy about that machine before election are singularly unanimous the day after in charging its defeat to its failure to redeem its former campaign pledges. Even the Leader frankly admitted yesterday—better late than never—that the Democratic-Citizens machine has a record that would not stand inspection and that it is guilty of flagrant disregard of public sentiment and public interest. The question Mr. McCleave passed up to the people as having been propounded to him by the machine is now passed up to the machine by the popular vote. What will the machine do about it?

The re-election of Gov. J. C. Beckham in Kentucky may seal the fate of Caleb Powers, formerly secretary of state. The prosecution of Powers has been one of the darkest chapters in the political history of the blue Grass state. It has been evident to every disinterested observer that prosecuting attorneys, judges and jurors have been moved by political animus and not by the evidence in the several trials of Powers. Now that Beckham is re-elected there is only one hope for the young man whose crime is that he is a popular Republican, and that is that Beckham, himself, secure for four years, may be moved by generous pity to do an act of justice and pardon or commute the sentence of the prisoner. Gov. Beckham really cannot afford to have the blood of an innocent man upon his hands.

Only those who read The Gazette had a news of the election yesterday morning. The Gazette had the best obtainable information, the most complete returns, and best estimates on districts which had not been heard from officially. The Post delivered carelessly. Its several editions had no definite news and a silly editorial was conspicuous for its oratorical effort and its lack of fact and judgment. The Leader appeared with [illegible] fragmentary figures, [illegible] Democratic-Citizens can[illegible] a wobbly ed[illegible] on both shoulders, and an air of doubt pervading every page. Even yesterday the Leader informed its readers the result was in doubt. The Gazette in its first edition Wednesday morning had the result right and gave the figures complete for many districts. In its later editions it filled out the tables and its editorial summary conveyed to the reader an exact statement of the situation. With almost complete returns yesterday evening the pluralities of the Republican candidates were as follows: Dickson, sheriff, 1,789; Stewart, district attorney, 1,291; Hamilton, prothonotary, 3,470. The Gazette is willing to have these figures compared with its estimates of yesterday morning.

What It Means.

The election returns confirm the correctness of The Gazette's prediction that the only hope of the Democratic-Citizens machine was in the stay-at-home vote. The machine polled a vote which measures the strength of the payroll influence. As a rule the heavier the vote the smaller was the proportionate share obtained by the machine. In the large East End wards, whose majorities brought success to the original Citizens movement, the slump was terrific. It is evident that with a fuller poll the machine would have been defeated in the cities, but as it was the majorities were so small that they were wiped out by the returns from the boroughs, and the Republican party carries the county by a decisive majority.

Although the payroll influence was strong enough to extract small majorities for the Democratic-Citizens machine in the three cities, yet wherever the result had a distinctly personal connection it was marked by the discomfiture of the bosses. The rebuke to the management was distinct and emphatic, and the heads of the "orphans" are very much above water now. Although exertion of personal influence on the part of the members of that reform phalanax does not appear to have contributed materially to the result in their districts, yet their censure upon the bosses of the organization undoubtedly was effective in the general result. The systematic work done by the managers of the Republican campaign, and the precautions taken against treachery on the part of nominal Republicans who are allies of the Citizens bosses, brought out the regular Republican vote, but the repudiation of the Citizens organization by the "orphans" was a factor of cardinal importance.

While the result is a rebuke to ring methods there is nothing in it to encourage party presumption. So long as the great residence wards give majorities, however small, against the Republican party, the party has no right to consider that it is reinstated in public confidence. It has yet to earn restoration to municipal control by becoming worthy of it by the merit of its candidates and by the sincerity of its devotion to the cause of reform. The people want a change of system, and are not going to be satisfied by a change of persons. They are not going to accept a new ring in place of an old ring. They want to be rid of rump committees, air-tight combines, and the entire hold-up system by which the public business is made the merchandise of politicians. They will support the party which affords them the means of accomplishing these ends. The election result confirms the prudence of the course which The Gazette has already suggested to the Republican party. If the "orphans" continue their efforts in behalf of the original principles of the Citizens movement and put up ward candidates unquestionably representative of those principles, the Republican party should indorse and support them.

The Congestion Problem.

One of the most important of the recommendations in the annual report of the national commissioner of immigration is that legislation be enacted looking to a better distribution of aliens admitted to the United States. This would be a new departure, and it may be that a properly framed law, honestly and painstakingly enforced, would cure what is now an admitted evil. The government of the United States considers that it is done with the immigrant after it inspects him and makes certain inquiries concerning him to satisfy the officials who administer the law that his incoming is not in violation of it. The flavor of it all is to keep him out if possible. After that the whole United States is before him, but his thought is not to go forth and conquer. We who are to the manner born can hardly appreciate his emotion as it looms before him, but we can conceive that while it was inviting to him in its distant allurements, it is perhaps almost terrifying in the nearer prospect. There being no beneficent paternalism to take him in hand and rough hew his future, it isn't much wonder if he seeks refuge from his fears in herding with his kind where he finds them for the comfort of association with the things he knows of, for the soothing reassurance of hearing spoken the tongue he speaks and for the inspiration to be found and the courage to be gained in and from comradeship with men of his own land and race. There is helpfulness in all these things to men in a land, in the sympathetic tongue of like with like, that is not to be found by isolation of self among a strange people. It is not to be wondered at that the almost helpless immigrant, adrift on a new sea of humanity, without chart or compass, seeks the haven that presents itself. The result, however, is the congestion of alien peoples so much complained of, the only relief from which is the operation of labor bureaus established at seaport cities, especially at the port of New York. But the operation of some of these is of doubtful utility, and there are other influences masquerading under the guise of kindness that are altogether pernicious. The congested quarter is, indeed, from the immigrant's view point a refuge from these things, even though complaints against it based on national considerations be well founded. A national provision for the distribution of immigrants might be a good thing when all this is considered.

There are difficulties in the way of establishing such a machinery as Mr. Sargent suggests. He may be equal later to clearing them away, but he does not consider them now. He sees the benefit but not the difficulties. Canada makes provision for the distribution of immigrants, but Canada is inviting immigration. The United States is not now inviting immigration. The immigrants simply come of their own motion, so far as the government and the American people are concerned. Provision for taking care of them when they do come implies an invitation to come, and the desire to encourage immigration has passed away. But that some provision for the prevention of congestion and its attendant perils would be a good thing is undoubted. Perhaps we shall hear more from Mr. Sargent on the subject before the end of the coming session of congress. He may have something specific to offer.

National Indications.

The most strongly marked feature of the elections is the elimination of Bryanism in both its past and present phases. Colorado has followed the example of other states which left the Republican party on the silver issue and is back in line again. Nebraska repeals her former rejection of Bryanism, defeating the fusion of Democrats and Populists by a decisive majority for the entire Republican state ticket. So much for the old phase of Bryanism. The new phase, which substitutes a policy of Socialist experimentation for the free silver issue, is buried beneath the Ohio landslide. Democratic successes in Maryland, Kentucky and elsewhere are all of a kind to strengthen old line Democratic leaders. Senator Gorman, who is a special mark for Bryan's animosity, gains in prestige and influence. The New York mayoralty election adds McClellan to the list of Democratic presidential possibilities.

Another feature of the elections that stands out pretty plainly is that the negrophil policy attributed to President Roosevelt has given a set-back to the Republican party in the southern states. As a matter of fact President Roosevelt appointed fewer colored men to office than President McKinley, but he made more noise about it, and whereas President McKinley's course attracted no special notice, President Roosevelt's has been the subject of violent agitation. Senator Gorman made the matter the leading issue of the campaign in Maryland and he has won on it. During the campaign it was reported that popular feeling over the matter was a distinct factor of the situation and the returns bear out the assertion. There is an element in the south which inclines to the Republican party on economic issues, but which is opposed to negro suffrage and when that issue is presented in any of its aspects turns against the Republican party. That element now blames President Roosevelt with stirring up that issue by inviting Booker T. Washington to sit at his table and is bitterly resentful of his course. President Roosevelt adheres to the maxim "whatever you do, do boldly" and is on the whole a gainer by it, but in this particular case he has lost by it in the south, and it would not be safe to reckon any southern electoral votes in the Republican column in the presidential election. Fortunately they are not needed.

In general the elections indicate the subordination of radicalism to conservative principles in both the great national organizations, leaving to visionaries and experimentalists only some third party organization as the instrument of their political adventures. With a return to normal party divisions, the state of New York is restored to its former position of commanding importance, and the old combination of New York and the middle west forms the basis of presidential campaign calculations.

Panama Revolution.

Colombia has given a prompt exhibition of its low standing in the scale of civilization by opening the war with Panama by a bombardment of an unprotected town. The government at Washington has very properly instructed the United States consul at Panama to enter a protest with the commander of the Colombian gunboat Bogota, both on account of the violation of the rules of warfare between civilized nations and as a warning to Colombia to inflict no injury upon the Panama railroad. It is to be hoped the Colombian commander will heed the protest, for if he does not it may become necessary for the United States gunboat, Machias, now hurrying to the scene from Acapulco, to enforce it.

Despite the deep American interest in the Panama canal, the government at Washington will take no steps to encourage the rebellion of Panama. Orders to consuls and naval commanders enjoin the protection of American citizens and property, the protection of the Panama railroad and the avoidance, if possible of bloodshed. Those orders are thoroughly American. The attitude of our government is highly honorable, and probably more forbearing than would be that of any other great world power under similar circumstances. But because America is fair it will not be wise for Colombia to presume upon its good nature to violate treaty obligations.

It is suspected in some quarters that the Panama Canal Company is not as innocent as the United States of measures to incite the rebellion of Panama. The French company is fully aware of its own inability to complete the canal and is, therefore, anxious to consummate the sale to the United States. The $40,000,000 asked for its works and franchises does not represent the actual outlay of the company by considerable odds, but it is more than the company could realize of its investment in any other way. The officers of the company are more keenly alive than the Colombian authorities to the danger that the United States may take up and construct the Nicaragua canal. It is not unnatural that it should resent the greed of the Colombian statesmen and their threat to confiscate the company's property by setting about the creation of an independent state of Panama. And if they succeed the fault will lie with the Bogota politicians.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Post, misled into an exhalation of exuberance by what it mistook for returns from the county pledges, [illegible] Well. —Chicago Record-Herald.

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

'Rah fer—fer—'Rah fer hooray!

Now that the election is over, the people's choice made and quiet restored, let us talk about something else—something good to eat, or to drink, or to chew.

By the way, what do you chew? Almost everyone chews something—any old thing seems to be good enough for some.

Have you ever tried the lead pencil? It is quite a favorite with pencil slingers, while bookkeepers, journalists, and the like, nibble it more or less.

If the wood is genuine Florida cedar, or juniper, a pencil makes quite a tasty chew, for it is one of the most agreeable aromatic woods we have. Pine, birch, sassafras and cherry are aromatic, but to a much less degree than juniper, and especially that species known as red cedar. And then, it is decidedly fragrant.

Its fragrance, although very agreeable to mankind, is generally offensive to bugs and vermin, especially to moths. This is due no doubt to the pungency of the oil which is quite abundant in the wood. And, strange to say, there appears to be no particular borer, or other destructive insect, that delights in chewing rich cedar.

You may know that cedar oil knocks the life out of insect pests whether crawlers, creepers or flyers, while cedar chests are said to be proof against moths that hunger after sealskins, furs and fine woolens.

But to get back to the lead pencil.

To begin with, it isn't lead at all, not even akin to lead.

How is that for a beginning?

But there are a great many things that are not what they seem, and that belie their names. The lead in your pencil is one of these.

Now, there is football, for instance. While the foot often plays a most important part in downing an opponent and keeping him down, or out, it doesn't play with the ball to any great extent.

According to a writer in a recent number of the Atlantic Monthly, it was not always so.

There is no such spirit in the school today as in old times. They have a football "eleven," it is true, and it holds its head well up among its mates; a little above 'em, too, most of the time—the old school's the old school yet, I tell 'em—but, after all, it isn't the old game, nor the old spirit. I go out sometimes to watch them, and think: "Well it's a queer game they play now, and call football!" There trot out in such astonishing toggery; padded and "guarded" from shin to crown—welted, belted, strapped and buckled beyond recognition. And there's no independence in the play; every move has to be told 'em. It's as if they weren't big enough to run alone; and so they hire a big step-mother of a university "coach," who stands around in a red sweater, and yells and berates them. Not a man answers back, he doesn't dare to. They don't dare eat plain Christian food, but have a "training table" and diet like invalids. I've seen 'em at a game not dare take a plain drink of water; when they get thirsty they sucked at a wet sponge, like babes at a bottle!

It was not so in our day. No apron strings of a university coach were tied to us. We were free-born men. When we wanted to play we got together and went down to the old pasture, to the big oak tree that stood near the middle of it, and there we would "choose up," and take off our coats and vests and neckgear and pile them around the oak, and walk out on the field and go at it—everybody—not a pitiful dozen or so, while the rest stood with their hands in their pockets and looked on—but everybody! And it was football, no playing half an hour without seeing the ball in the air once; we kicked it all the time—except when we missed it, and then we kicked the other fellow's shins. And when we got thirsty we went down to the spring and took an honest drink out of an honest tin cup.

Speaking of the lead pencil, which isn't a lead pencil at all: What becomes of them? Do you ever wear your pencils down to stub ends? If so, what becomes of the stubs?

What becomes of pins is another question entirely, and can't butt in here.

No one ever really uses up lead pencils; no one drinks them, so to speak, to the very dregs, unless it is one of those admirable people who keep journals and cash accounts and who usually carry a sort of "follow" arrangement in which they insert a half length pencil, and go on and on using it and sharpening it until it is all gone. Very few people ever get pencils worn down as far as a half length. They disappear before that stage is reached. What becomes of them all? Hundreds of thousands of them annually are lent to young children and never seen again, but what do the children do with them? Do they eat them up? Possibly.

Everybody has seen lead pencils the upper end of which have been chewed into a brush, but children do not posses such ostrich stomachs as would enable them to consume all the pencils that disappear.

* * * * *

The lead in a lead pencil, so called, is composed of graphite and clay.

Graphite is a word derived from the Greek graphe, to write, and may apply to any pigment that can be conveniently used for writing purposes. This name, however, has been given to a native mineral carbon, black, with brilliant metallic luster.

It is sometimes called plumbago, and has still another name, black lead, from which, of course, we get the name lead pencil. Graphite is found in the oldest rock formations, and deposits are to be found in various parts of the world, the most famous being those at Ailaf, in Siberia, and at Ticonderega, N. Y., in this country.

It is first reduced to an impalpable powder by grinding, then water is added, and then, in the liquid state, it is passed through mixers. Here it is combined with whatever quantity of clay may be necessary to give it the desired grade. The more clay, the harder the lead, and vice versa. The composition of the clay is the result of years of experimentation, and is a profound secret. In color it is a pale drabbish gray, and can easily be cut with a pocket knife.

After being thoroughly mixed this paste is passed through dies of the exact diameter of the lead that is to go into the pencil. These leads are cut to lengths of about three feet and allowed to dry, after which they are cut to the required pencil lengths, packed in crucibles, and burned for several hours in order to get rid of every bit of moisture and make the lead finany ready for insertion in its wooden case.

* * * * *

The cedar case of a pencil is made in halves, each half being equally channelled, so that the place where they join comes against the center of the lead.

First we have the slab of wood as it is shipped from Florida—this slab is passed under a rotary cutter, which planes the surface perfectly flat and smooth, and at the same time grooves it to receive six leads. These leads are now laid in the grooves of one of these slabs, and another slab, similarly planed and grooved, is spread with glue and laid upon it; the two thus put together are then placed in a press, and when perfectly dry are taken out and passed twice under a grooved rotary cutter, first on one side, rounding one half of the pencil, and then on the other, finishing the rounding of the whole pencil and separating one from the other at the same time.

These single pencils are then passed through other machines which polish, varnish, stamp, and put them in cases, ready for delivery to the trade.

* * * * *

Now, there's your pencil.

There is another point, however, and an important one, too, since it has to do with the point of your pencil; and that is its temper, or grade. This is indicated by certain letters stamped on the body of the pencil.

Of the ordinary pencil there are eight grades, the softest of which is marked S, meaning soft (for heavy shading); then following in order are S. B., soft black (for heavy shading); S. M., soft medium (pocket and office); M. B., medium black (pocket and mechanical); M., medium (memorandum books); M. H., medium hard (drawing classes); H., hard (ledgers and outlines), and V. H., very hard (finest lines).

Of artists' and draughtsmen's pencils there are eleven grades, beginning with V. V. S., very, very soft, and ending with V. V. H., very, very hard.

* * * * *

There are other colored pencils, but they are not lead, either, and not even made of graphite, but of colored clays and wax, which, of course, counts for their being though instead of brittle.

Do you recollect the kind stone you used to carry in your pocket to mark things—anything that presented an inviting surface? For most part we picked these up on gravel bars, or along the creek, or spring run. The softer and better ones were, probably, soap stone, being comparatively free from grit. Their colors varied, but red was the favorite.

There is a kind, however, used largely by carpenters and lumbermen for marking timber and rough stuff. It is simply paint material pressed into hard lumps and then cut in pieces to suit.

The Rev. David Hogan of Vernon county, Mo., has to his credit a list of 1,007 marriages solemnized by himself in his long ministry of 58 years.

The bronze statue of Cecil Rhodes, which was recently completed at Fulham, England, for shipment to South Africa, is one of the largest ever cast in England. It is 14 feet high and weighs over five tons.

Stephen Panaretoff has been chosen the lecturer in the Bromley course at Yale university this year. He is professor of Bulgarian and Slavic languages and literature in Robert college, Constantinople.

King Lewanica, ruler of Basutoland, is educating several of his many sons in England and Australia, and has just sent one to be placed in a school at Winfield, Kans. The boy will board with a colored man, and will be allowed $500 a year for expenses.

The Kaiser and the Socialists.

The German emperor is talking of waging a ruthless war on the Socialists, who now constitute the largest political party in Germany. It is said that he is trying to get permission of the czar to send Socialists to Siberia. When the kaiser begins to persecute he will be on dangerous ground. Long ago Heine said that when the political revolution came in Germany it would be much more terrible than the French revolution. Persecution of a numerous class who are for the most part seeking to realize their plans by regular political methods may be the means of bringing on the revolution.—Minneapolis Journal.

The New Stamp.

The new 2-cent stamp will probably not feel especially stuck-up after the usual abuse has been heaped upon it. The fact is, life is not worth living for an ordinary little postage stamp in these days of clarifying good taste. Some time perhaps a designer will arise who will discard pictures of national worthies and confine himself strictly to pure design, and the stamp that he will produce will radiate with loveliness on an envelope of hand-made paper.—Boston Transcript.

THE OLD DIME NOVEL.

How dear to my heart are the days of my boyhood,
When memory fondly presents them to view.
Had I but the skill of an artist, with joy would
I picture those scenes so familiar to you,
The old red brick schoolhouse, the waving grain by it,
The sweet dainty school ma'am who taught me to spell,
And hidden away where her eyes could not spy it,
"The Prairie Avenger, or Dare-Devil Nell."

The old yellow novel, the paper-bound novel,
The Beadle Dime Novel I once loved so well!

That dog's-eared old novel I prized as a treasure,
For there I first learned of Mysterious Dick;
Who rescued fair maidens, killed Indians for pleasure,
And cut, for each victim, a notch on a stick.
The redskins were yelling in horrible chorus
(While pleasing thrills chased up and down my small spine),
When Dick, the lone horseman, all daubed with phos-pho-rus,
Dashed boldly at night through the en-emy's line.

The bloodcurdling novel, the hair-raising novel,
What generous measure it gave for a dime!

Oh where are the dew and the freshness of morning,
And where are the joys of the freckle-faced boy?
How jaded and dusty the day is whose dawning
Was gorgeous as sunrise and radiant as joy!
Oh where are the beauties in gingham who scorned us—
May, Lucy, and Amy, Rebecca and Nell,
The old country doctor, the preacher who warned us,
The teacher who kissed us and taught us to spell?

They're gone with old Beadle, old dime-novel Beadle,
Dear dead-and-gone Beadle we once loved so well.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—How do you account for it? That is the query that runs up and down Broadway this evening. It is asked by the late adherents of Low, who supposed that the comforts of a decent administration such as has prevailed for nearly two years, would call for a continuance. Tammany laughs at such observations. Tammany is represented by a howling multitude which overflows every district in the greater city, and is especially obstreperous in Manhattan. How the ranks of Tammany hall have increased in volume since the result was known last night is one of the wonders of the election. It is merely an exemplification of the human weakness for getting out of the wet as early as possible. There are men in this city, thousands of them, who would not admit that they voted for Low if they thought it were not suspected. They are good, honest men, too, as men go. They would hardly care to say that they voted one way, when they had actually voted another, but so long as the question is not put to them directly, they think it would be no harm to let the general opinion be that they were shrewd enough to vote on the winning side. For it is indicative of the inconsistency of human nature that many men who were rather blatant in their demands to "turn the grafter out," are saying this evening that there are grafters in every party. There is nothing so convenient as being able to "square" one's self when all one's friends are yelling for a certain cause or candidate.

Croker Can Come Out of Exile.

Although some persons are inclined to think that Croker may have had a hand in ousting Charles F. Murphy in the campaign just closed, it is not generally believed. One morning paper in an editorial, said that "Richard may come home now," but it cannot be truthfully asserted that this inference is generally accepted. Most people give Murphy credit for the victory, if there is credit due to any one man.

"Wide Openness" Starts Early.

There was a doleful procession of "celebrants" before several of the city magistrates this morning, but all were discharged, except in cases where drunk and enthusiasm had led to flagrant disorder which could not be condoned. It is expected that there shall be a breaking over the lines of decorum on an election night, particularly when Tammany is the victor. If a New Yorker is not allowed to take a few drinks and yell himself hoarse on such an occasion as last night, then where is all the "wide openness" that is mentioned as the greatest good to come for the placing of Tammany in power once more?

Can't Lose the Button Man.

That periodical nuisance, the man who inquires: "Well how does it suit you?" is the same idiot who demands to know: "Is it hot enough for you?" about the Fourth of July. He is, particulary this evening, in many instances, repeating the exasperating question on a button worn on his lapel. "Him, the button man," has much to answer for.

McClellan Not Under the Lash.

McClellan intends to go to Washington on Sunday to take part in the special session of congress called by President Roosevelt. He is not particularly elated over his election as mayor of Greater New York, from all appearances, although he admits that it pleases him. In the meantime, he will work hard as a congressman until it comes time for him to take the oath as mayor. Incidentally, McClellan says there will be no "kitchen cabinet" in his administration. That is to say, he will not take orders from the "boss" as was done at Lakewood when Van Wyck was mayor, and Croker was taking a rest at that retired place. Murphy has nothing to say for publication on this subject.

Well Developed Murderous Spirit.

The effect of the "gang" system of which the "Monk" Eastman organization is the best known example, has just been shown in Brooklyn in a pitifully absurd manner. An eight-year-old lad who was stabbed by an unknown boy on Monday night will not tell who was his assailant. He admits that he knows, but all he will say, as he lies on a hospital cot, fighting with death, is: "I won't tell who did it, I'll settle with them myself." The murderous spirit in which this child makes the threat needs no elucidation. The doctors think he will recover.

Flowers for a Magistrate.

Flammer is a name so well known as that of a magistrate in this city that it is natural to hear he has been on the bench 20 years. The fact was celebrated today by the officials of the court and the clerks to the board of magistrates by their decorating the court with flowers and presenting resolutions to the magistrate. He replied courteously, and the whole proceeding was very pleasant. Mr. Flammer is always been popular, and the place at large regard him as one of the most able members of the board of magistrates. What the prisoners thought of it when they found the courtroom a bower of roses, ferns and chrysanthemums was not recorded, but as the magistrate discharged most of them, probably they regarded the joyful decorations as eminently fitting.

Method in Croker's Silence.

Of course Richard Croker was interviewed at Watkins on the result of the election in New York and equally, of course, he has nothing to say. Taciturnity is characteristic of the great ex-boss. He could not very well say anything for publication, nor it is believed here that he will say anything at any time. Besides, the English papers express regret over Tammany's success, and it is not likely Croker would want to fly in their faces, when it is probable the king agrees with their sentiments. That is the view of Croker's attitude generally taken here, anyhow.

Dowie Eclipsed by Dog Show.

The dog show at Madison Square garden is doing better than the Dowie show last week, and the week before. There is not more snarling now than there was, and there are yelps of satisfaction occasionally, which were very scarce when the prophet stood on the platform and contemplated the dissatisfied faces of his audiences. The Ladies' Kennel association is holding its third annual exhibition, and each one has been better attended than that preceding.

Somebody Will Want Greene's Place.

Police Commissioner Greene said today that he would be glad to resign the reins of office. Last week he was quoted as saying that he could not be turned out until the expiration of his term, which has two years to run, unless for some good reason. Mayor McClellan will find a reason easily enough, no doubt, if only that some Tammany man wants the position. There is a comfortable salary attached to it, besides considerable prestige and it is conceivable that a Low man in the office would have such a lovely time of it with Tammany in power that he would be only too glad to resign. There will be a new police commissioner after the first of January beyond all doubt.

Women in Tears Over Tammany's Victory.

Among those who are disappointed over the Tammany victory are the women of this city who took an active part in the campaign in favor of Low. They can see only a return of the "grafter" days, and many of them who are well known were dissolved in tears today as they discussed the situation. One lady said, with fierce emphasis: "It is wicked, that's what it is!"

Election Results.

Both Philadelphia and the state have given a Republican majority that exceeds every off-year expectation, and is another notice that Pennsylvania in the future, as in the past, intends to keep its place at the right of the Republican line. The vote generally was light. There were a few exceptions, however. The strenuous struggle for control in Allegheny county and contests for judgeships in some large interior counties as Dauphin, Bucks, Lancaster, Blair and Clearfield have brought out the unusually large poll in each. All through the campaign these districts have enlisted the energy of the managers on both sides, and attracted the chief public interest in the affairs of the state. They had not only political significance in most instances, but the contests had so shaped that to considerable degree the returns demonstrates the sentiment of the people on the question of non-partisanship on the bench.

But in counties where the vote is large and where the party has in some instances been divided on local questions, as well as in all others, steadiness on the state ticket in every case is evident. The people have gone to the polls to declare their support of Republican principles; to give a convincing indorsement of the national administration, and to place Pennsylvania in a secure and unequivocal position for the presidential year. All false and untimely issues have been swept aside to do this. The vote has been cast on the broad question of party policies. On that ground Pennsylvania yields nothing. It presents its great majorities to the republicans of the country with the assurance that they are permanent.—Philadelphia Press.

It would be too much to say that New York it unfit for self-government. But it is the truth that there is no visible evidence of its fitness to govern itself in the triumph which Tammany Hall won. The verdict is the more unsatisfactory because it was calmly and deliberately reached by the great jury of voters. While the excitement which was conspicuous and prominent two years ago did not develop this year, there was no reason to believe that the comparative tranquility indicated a lack of rational interest in the contest. Moreover, there is nothing about the result to suggest the poor excuse that the natural opponents of Tammany suffered the election to go by default. The registration was larger than ever before, and the poll showed less than the usual falling off from the registry figures. It would seem that after deliberate consideration of what had resulted from turning Tammany out a large majority of the people had quietly determined to put it back.—New York Tribune.

The Republican organization of Pittsburgh and Allegheny county is to be congratulated on the splendid victory which it secured there. It means much for the city of Pittsburgh and for the Republican party in the county and also in the state. There has never been a party in power in the city of Pittsburgh which betrayed the confidence of the people so deliberately as the Citizens party which has been in control during the past year, and which still controls to a large extent the municipal government.—Washington Observer.

+ + + +

The worst effect of the Tammany victory will be the partisanizing of the police, to which Mr. McClellan is committed. Nothing is more certain than that if politics are put back into the police the police will go back into politics—and graft. This would be an outrage and a misfortune. The Mayor has the police force of a great city to command under a new control every two years and be made the foothold of politicians is opposed to every requirement of discipline, honesty and efficiency. The police administration should be as independent and as stable as the judiciary. In view of the danger of a relapse of the police administration to the demoralization which it suffered under Van Wyck and Devery, the governor—who has under the present idiotic law a co-ordinate power of removal but no control over the appointment of a commissioner—would be justified in calling an extra session of the legislature to pass a law placing the police force of all cities of the first class upon a stable, scientific, non-partisan basis.—New York World.

+ + + +

Ohio is the center of Republican interest and pride today. The Buckeye state stands alone among those which voted Tuesday in the weight and force of its victory for the policy of McKinley and Roosevelt, for the principles of protection and sound money, for safety and safety in government. The triumph is monumental in every sense. The Democratic minority in the state legislature will be about the smallest since the civil war. The Republican majority on the state ticket is correspondingly immense. There will be nearly or quite three times as many Republicans as Democrats in the general assembly. The senate and the house are alike overwhelmingly Republican. Buckeye Republicans have every right to be exultant. They hold the center of the political stage. Their victory is magnificent. Their leaders have been fiercely assailed. Now they are completely triumphant. Honor and congratulations to all, present and future, prosperity and prestige, power and joy, to Ohio Republicanism and to the splendid Buckeye state.—Cleveland Leader.

+ + + +

It is not at all the worst aspect of this triumph of Tammany that it insures for us two years of loot and corruption such as we saw under the Van Wyck administration. There is a deeper discouragement than that. The defeat of Mayor Low and his associates upon the Fusion ticket goes far to prove that with the present composition of its electorate New York city is not altogether fit for self-government. Popular suffrage itself is impeached by the appalling choice deliberately made by something like 400,000 voters. Two years more of the Tammany abominations we can stand. We can rise superior even to the discouragement of such a fearful backsliding. But if a more serious and enduring calamity than faith in human nature itself is shaken by the election spread before the people of the city and the whole country. It will be immensely more difficult to organize effectively for the next fight against Tammany.—New York Times.

Journalistic.

Public Opinion, New York, has appeared in a handsome new cover and with a new arrangement of matter. The improvement in makeup is quite noticeable and the selection of matter under the editorial supervision of E. T. Pierce has always been excellent.

The Erie Daily Times labors in an appreciative field. One day recently it published some scores of congratulatory messages from well-known citizens upon its large increase in circulation and general improvement. The Times has been a conspicuous success in the Lake City. We join its readers in congratulations.

Honest and Fearless.

A private letter written by President Roosevelt to a member of congress which has found its way into print shows that the president is determined to push the postoffice investigation to its logical conclusion, regardless of political or personal influence. This is in accordance with the popular opinion of the president's absolute honesty and fearlessness. The kind of honesty which he advocates and practices in public affairs is always the best policy.—Indianapolis Journal.

Andrew Proetzaski of No. 2400 Forbes street.
Alfred Golden, aged 35, of No. 37 Federal street.
Benjamin Stein.
William Boyd.
John Opperman.

Two men were killed and several persons were injured, as a result of the heavy fog that hung over this city yesterday. The pall was almost impenetrable early, and conditions improved little as the day wore on.

A train on the Allegheny Valley railroad struck and killed John Stauffer, a miner, aged 40, at Crandell, yesterday morning. Stauffer and his son were on their way to work, after having moved across the river from Brackenridge, their home. The son heard the train coming but could not see it. He made efforts to get his father from the track, but failed. Stauffer leaves a widow and four children.

An Italian, whose identity so far is unknown, was killed yesterday morning on the Panhandle railroad at the entrance to the Ohio connecting bridge. He was working in a gang and a shifting engine bore down on the whole party. All escaped but the one man. His body was taken to Fullerton's undertaking establishment in Ninth street.

John Stroup, a flagman, was struck by a train on the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railroad, near Conway, and had three ribs and his right leg broken, and received a number of scalp wounds.

Andrew Proetzaski of No. 2400 Forbes street, went into his rear yard early yesterday morning and owing to fog lost his bearings and fell over the hill. His collarbone was broken.

Two street cars were badly wrecked and one passenger received numerous injuries, as a result of a collision between a Lincoln and Center avenue car and a car of the Lincoln and Ellsworth line. There were few passengers on the cars at the time and all escaped with a slight shaking up and minor injuries except Alfred Geiden, of No. 37 Federal street, whose back was hurt and who received numerous cuts and bruises about the face and head from flying glass.

In a collision between a Western avenue car and a wagon, at Western avenue and Cabinet street, Allegheny, the cab of the car was demolished and Benjamin Stein, driver for G. W. Allen, was injured about the head and body, and William Boyd, the motorman, was crushed about the body and cut on the head. About 20 passengers were shaken up by the collision.

John Opperman was thrown from his seat and the wagon on which he was driving was badly damaged as the result of a collision with a Hilltop car at Knox avenue, Knoxville.

A delay of half an hour resulted from a Frankstown avenue car having jumped the track at Highland and Penn avenues.

Laundry was scattered all over the street and the two rear wheels were knocked off a wagon of the Troy laundry at Forbes and Stevenson streets, after a Mt. Oliver car had hit the vehicle. William Doles, the driver, escaped by jumping.

SCHOOL TEACHER STRUCK DOWN IN THE STREET

Miss Lida F. McHattie of Shakespeare School Waylaid at Point Bridge.

While on her way to visit a friend last evening, Miss Lida F. McHattie, a teacher in the Shakespeare public school, Twentieth ward, was assaulted at Linden and Penn avenues. Her assailant was captured by two men and turned over to Policemen Edward Frank and Neal Crane. At the Frankstown avenue police station the man gave his name as Fred A. Delman and said he lives in Hastings street. He was locked up, charged with being a suspicious person.

The men who captured Delman were attracted to the scene by Robert Beesley, colored janitor at the Point Breeze Presbyterian church. The men said that Delman knocked down and choked Miss McHattie, who, after being released by the men, continued on her way, although suffering greatly from shock.

Mrs. Samuel Wood of No. 6729 Thomas street sent word to the police station last evening that she witnessed the assault on Miss McHattie and that she believed it was an attempt at robbery. Miss McHattie lives in Emerson street.

Many Got Cold Suppers.

Several hundred residents of the South Side and Hill Top districts were kept from their supper for about half an hour last night by the breaking of an axle on Knoxville car No. 76, in front of Kaufmann's store at 5:45 o'clock. About a dozen crowded cars were stalled for a half an hour, and progress in getting by the breakdown by using a nearby switch was slow.

MUST ABANDON PANAMA CANAL

Senator Morgan Says Revolution Puts an End to That Route.

WOULD TURN TO NICARAGUA

Claims That Further Negotiations for Panama Properly Would Indicate That the United States Had Encouraged the Present Rebellion.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.

Senator Morgan, chairman of the Isthmian canal committee, in a strong and positive statement today took the ground that this government under the circumstances could not now build a Panama canal without war with Colombia, and that the president's plain duty, in view of the situation on the isthmus, is to turn to Nicaragua to avoid every possible appearance, in the eyes of the world, of encouraging the present revolution.

"I do not wish to say, nor can I believe," said Senator Morgan, "that the officials of this government have in any way encouraged the present revolution in the state of Panama. But I do wish to say that, in order to avoid every possible appearance of having given such encouragement, it will be necessary for the president to at once conform to the terms of the Spooner act, adopt the alternative therein contained, and negotiate with Nicaragua and Costa Rica for the construction of the Nicaragua canal.

"We must remain entirely clear of the present trouble on the isthmus. If we have any duty at all, it is to stand by the sovereign state of Colombia, for we are bound by this by the treaty obligations of 1846. Three times in history we have fulfilled the obligations of this convention, in which we guarantee Colombia's sovereignty and ownership of the territory of its states. If we are called upon now to take any action whatever, we should do nothing less than keep the peace with our good offices and our treaty obligations with Colombia.

"Under the circumstances of the present revolution, it is not now possible for us to build the Panama canal, whatever be the result of the revolt, without war with Colombia and, as a consequence, war with other South American states. We cannot now build the Panama canal by a treaty with the state of Panama, if independence is accomplished, without losing the respect of every nation in the world and all right-thinking people.

"To be sure, Colombia, in neglecting to take action on the Hay-Herran treaty, and thus allowing it to become null and void, has treated the United States with disdain and disrespect. That is no reason, however, why this country, large and powerful, should not maintain an attitude of dignity and refrain from every evidence of injustice, neglect of obligations, and connivance."

Senator Cullom said: "In case the insurgents in Panama are successful and win recognition of the republic of Panama from the United States, the embarrassment in which this government now finds itself concerning canal negotiations will be relieved, as it will then be possible to negotiate a treaty with the new state."

COLORED MISSIONARY WORKERS MEET TODAY

Delegates Will Be Present from Many Places in Bethel A. M. E. Church.

The Women Parent Mite Missionary society of the African M. E. church will convene in its third quadrennial convention this morning in Bethel A. M. E. church, Wylie avenue and Elm street, Rev. I. S. Mrs. W. B. Derrick of Flushing, N. Y., president, will preside. Questions of great importance pertaining to the home and foreign mission fields will be considered. Bishop B. W. Arnett, D. D., L. D., presiding bishop of the Third Episcopal district, embracing the Pittsburgh, Ohio, North Ohio and California annual conferences, arrived yesterday from his home in Wilberforce, O., to superintend arrangements for entertaining and careing for the comfort of the delegates. The local society and the Pittsburgh conference branch society have everything in readiness.

The following bishops of the church will be here during the five days' session: Bishop B. W. Arnett, D. D., of Ohio; Bishop B. F. Derrick, D. D., of New York; Bishop A. Grant, D. D., of St. Louis, and Bishop Evan Tyree of Arkansas. Dr. H. B. Parks of New York City, secretary of missions, will address the convention.

TRIED TO KILL HIS SISTER.

ZANESVILLE, O., Nov. 4.—(Special.) George Barr, who disappeared two days ago before the announced date of his wedding to Pansy Blake, returned here yesterday. He met his sister, Mrs. Maggie Rector, in front of Miss Blake's home this evening. The two quarreled and Barr shot at her three times, all the shots missing. His mother and sister filed charges against him but no has left the city.

Girl Missing from California, Pa.

Dora Keith, a pretty miss of 17 years, has been missing from her home in California, Pa., since Tuesday morning, and the police of this city have been asked to find her. It was reported last night that she had been located and would be sent back today. She left her home early Tuesday morning to go to school, but instead she is known to have purchased a ticket for Pittsburgh. At the time she had $16. Her parents say that she knows no one in this city.

Fines Imposed Caused Surprise.

Police court at McKeesport was crowded yesterday morning to hear the evidence in the cases against George Robinson, J. W. Taylor and R. L. Horn, arrested on a charge of trying to break up a Republican mass meeting. It was expected that Mayor George J. F. Falkenstein would impose a severe penalty, but it was a great surprise when Robinson was let off with a $10 fine, and two others were fined $5.

PRICE OF BILLETS TO BE LOWERED

Leading Manufacturers Practically Agree to a Cut of $4 a Ton.

STEP TOWARD READJUSTMENT

It Is Generally Considered That a New Schedule of Prices Will Be Made on Finished Goods, Excepting Steel Rails.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Nov. 4.

At a meeting of leading steel and iron manufacturers of the country in this city today arrangements were practically concluded for a reduction in the price of billets amounting to $4 a ton.

Sentiment expressed at the meeting was overwhelmingly in favor of a reduction. It is stated that next week the announcement of the reduction will be formally made to the trade. It is also learned that the members of the United States Steel Corperation at the meeting indorsed the step to lower the price of billets. This is generally considered the first step toward a complete readjustment of the prices of finished goods, but it is explicitly stated there will be no cut in the price of steel rails.

Following upon the announcement that the United States Steel Corporation had made a very heavy sale of steel in England, the decision to lower the prices of billets in this country is particularly significant. In well-informed quarters the decision is looked upon as an effort to stimulate business at home and abroad, as well as to conform to pig iron market conditions.

Steel shares were weak today, the tape indicating that the leading steel manufacturers of the country had at last been compelled to make a readjustment of prices on account of the slackening demand. At the opening of the stock market all the steel stocks including the new 5 per cent bonds were strong on the news that the Steel Corporation had successfully placed a contract in England in competition with German and English manufacturers. Later, however, selling developed in the preferred stock, which weakened not only that issue, but also the common and the sinking fund 5 per cent bonds. Reports thereupon began to be circulated that the pronounced weakness indicated a lowering of prices.

Investigation developed the fact that there was some basis for the reports. Leading members of the steel billet pool, it was found, were in conference during the afternoon considering the advisability of reducing the price of billets from $27 a ton to $23 a ton. No announcement was given out after the conference, but it is understood that when the meeting adjourned it was tacitly agreed that there should be a reduction of at least $4 a ton to meet conditions prevailing in the pig iron market.

The body will, in all probability, meet again next week, after which the formal announcement of a reduction will be made. Besides the big export of the United States Steel Corporation, southern furnaces have obtained an order for 15,000 tons of southern pig iron at $9 50 for No. 2 foundry and $8 50 for gray forge.

Deputy Sheriff Morris of Indiana, was Afflicted with Deafness, Weak Eyes, Cough, Sore Throat, — All symptoms of Catarrh.

Pe-ru-na Cured Him.

Mr. Raymond J. Morris, Deputy Sheriff.

November weather causes catarrh. Keep a bottle of Pe-ru-na on hand to use upon the first appearance of a cold. Catarrh is only a neglected, chronic cold.

Mr. Raymond J. Morris, Deputy Sheriff of Floyd County, in a letter from New Albany, Indiana, says:

"Last winter I contracted a most distressing cold. It affected my hearing, my eyes run and my head was all stopped up and I coughed until my throat was raw and sore. A druggist who was a personal friend asked me to try Peruna and I reluctantly did so. Usually all patent medicines nauseated me, but I was pleased to find that this was an exception and that it soon relieved me. Within eight days I was cured and in addition felt better and stronger than I had done for some time. Since that time I have used it off and on and find that it not only cures colds and all catarrhal affections but that it acts as a splendid appetizer. If the system becomes worn out or the nerves unstrung, Peruna acts as a fine tonic, relieves the tension and induces rest and renewed health. It is a fine remedy calculated to relieve young and old, and I heartily indorse it."—Raymond J. Morris, Deputy Sheriff.

A United States Consul Indorses Pe-ru-na.

Hon. Chas. Bouchsein, Consul of the United States of America to Bremen, Germany, in a recent letter from Washington, D. C., writes:

"I cheerfully join with my many friends in their good opinion of Peruna as an effective remedy for catarrh and colds."—Chas. Bouchsein.

Men of prominence all over the United States are recommending Peruna. Over fifty members of Congress have written their indorsement of it. Scores of other government officials speak in high praise of it. Thousands of people in the humbler walks of life rely upon it as a family medicine. Send for free book of testimonials.

There are some things which are as sure as fate and can be relied on to occur to at least one-half of the human family unless means are taken to prevent.

First, the climate of fall and winter is sure to bring colds; second, colds not promptly cured are sure to cause catarrh; third, catarrh improperly treated is sure to make life short and miserable.

Catarrh spares no organ or function of the body. It is capable of destroying sight, taste, smell, hearing, digestion, secretion, assimilation and exertion. It pervades every part of the human body—head, throat, stomach, bowels, bronchial tubes, lungs, liver, kidneys, bladder and sexual organs.

Catarrh is the cause of at least one-half of the ills to which the human family is subject. Is there no way to escape from it? There is.

Peruna never fails to cure a cold. Peruna never fails to cure catarrh in the first stage. Peruna cures catarrh in the second stage, nine cases out of ten. Peruna cures catarrh in its last and worst stages in the majority of cases, and never fails to benefit every case, however bad.

Peruna also cures in grippe, coughs and consumption in the first stages with unfailing certainty.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

CARNEGIE ART GALLERIES HAVE EXHIBITION OF HIGH AVERAGE MERIT

Private View Last Evening Shows Many Pictures of Interest and Quality.

LARGE NUMBER FROM ABROAD

Contributions from the International Society of Artists of London Added to the Paintings—Competing for Prizes Gives Fine Collection.

Well up to the standards set in former years by the annual art event at the Carnegie Institute is the characterization given this year's exhibition by those who were favored with a private view of the galleries of the institute last evening, when all had been made ready for the public opening today.

To say that the present year's exhibition is in keeping with those of former years means that there is no annual exhibition of the same kind in America that will average better, if we are to go by the frequently-expressed opinions of the artists and art critics who are familiar with the Carnegie galleries at Pittsburgh.

The exhibition this year is distinguished from all others that have been held in the seven years since the art galleries were opened by the large amount of space devoted to the paintings of the International Society of Artists of London. The entire east gallery is given up to 35 works of the members of that society. These pictures have come to America, selected by the artists themselves as their best, and in the number are to be found some excellent examples of the characteristic productions of several painters whose names are familiar ones in the whole world of art.

Foreign Works Together.

The foreign works are not admitted, however, to the competition for prizes, for the main gallery and the west gallery are hung the pictures selected by the jury a few weeks ago and entered in the contest for honors. As has been said the great majority of these works are American and this city is represented by seven artists. The second floor corridor is also lined with pictures and drawings. The total is 280.

It was pointed out last evening by one of the fine arts committee of the institute board that the exhibition offers a most excellent opportunity to compare the works of American artists with those of Europe. "The Americans will have no need to regret the comparison," he added. "Take from the two classes of exhibited pictures, the best six and the average of the others will be in favor of the American artists."

It is unfair to compare the exhibit of this year with that of last. In 1902 a "loan" exhibition was made, the galleries of art collectors all over the country generously contributing for a short time some of their choicest possessions to the Carnegie exhibition. This year the artists themselves have entered their own paintings and the conditions are different. It is with the years preceding last year that the present exhibition must be compared to show its relative quality, and with those exhibitions it needs no apology.

Work of Local Artists.

John W. Alexander, formerly of Pittsburgh, is one of the seven painters mentioned as local men having works adjudged worthy of hanging. Alexander's "Autumn," which has been seen here before, is the one shown. George Louis Seyffarth, whose portrait of a "Young Man" attracted considerable attention last year, is represented this year by two additional works, "Mischief" and "Portrait of a Musician." Mr. Carsteker's work is admittedly full of promise. It is, however, still that of a youth and does not bear the marks of the finished artist. That two of his pictures should be chosen, when the jurors had 425 to select out of over 800 offered, certainly indicates their recognition of his work being above the average.

Johanna Woodwell Hallman is represented by "Priscilla," a demure maiden well filling the name. Howard Logan Hildebrand's portrait of John A. Brashear, the well-known Allegheny astronomer and acting chancellor of the Western university is shown. It is a faithful painting, but the artist has hardly caught the fire of enthusiasm that the friends of Mr. Brashear know well. It is a painting slightly too "still."

The Pictures from Abroad.

A Carnegie institute exhibit without a sheep picture by A. Bryan Wall would not be complete. "Sheep and Snow" is the pastoral Mr. Wall offers this year. Christopher Walter entitles his painting "Spring Evening." Its character is told by the title. Joseph R. Woodwell is represented by "The Harvest Moon."

It is not unnatural that the first attention of those who visit the galleries should be given to the European exhibit, and in that collection will be found several exceptional works. Perhaps Franz Stuck's "The Furies" will attract more attention than any of the others. It is an unpleasant picture, a sort of Dante inspiration, but the tones are striking. There are other instances of somber tones in this collection. The "Vision of St. Paul in Ecstasy," by J. Humphreys Johnston; Charles Shannon's "The Mermaid," and Maurice Greiffenhagen's painting from the text "The Sons of God Saw the Daughters of Men That They Were Fair" are all here. They are likewise among the best of the paintings offered. John Lavery has two paintings, "Le Cheu Bleu," a handsome young woman with a blue cabbage flower in her hair, and "Girl in White." Both attracted much attention.

Many Portraits Shown.

Jean Boldini's portrait of James Abbott McNeill Whistler is also an interesting one, although it is claimed that the portrait has too carefully outlined all the unattractive features of the brother artist's face.

Jacques Emile Blanche is represented by a sketch of children which he calls "The Rainbow; Peasant Children in Normandy." The painting has a vividness almost of motion about it, although fault may be found with it on other grounds. Five attitudes of attention are delineated with remarkable success.

In the main and west galleries, wherein are contained the paintings contesting for prizes, considerable attention will be attracted by the portraits shown. Sargent and Henri are seen at their best. Sargent's portrait of President Alexander J. Cassatt of the Pennsylvania railroad, of Mrs. Charles F. Curtis, Jr., and of James Whitcomb Riley are contrasted with two portraits by Robert Henri, one called "Young Woman in Black" and one "Girl in White Waist." Both came in for very favorable comment last evening and many said that Henri had done his best work in these two drawings.

The Cassatt portrait is a remarkably good one. Its tones are bright, as are those of the two other Sargent portraits, while the two works by Henri are much darker and seem to be portraits of a character rather than a certain face and figure. The Henri portraits are larger than an individual; they represent a type. Sargent's are essentially individual. Both are successful.

Paintings Hung Side by Side.

Sargent is also brought into comparison with William Merritt Chase through the hanging of paintings by the two side by side. One is Sargent's painting of Mrs. Curtis; the other is Chase's "When One Is Young." Chase is represented also in the foreign collection, as he is a member of the International Society. His painting there is "My Daughter Dieudonne."

A portrait of Richard Watson Gilder by Cecilia Beaux also received much attention. It is an excellent painting of the well-known poet and editor, and for that is made especially interesting here because of Miss Beaux having been a member of one of the Carnegie art juries.

A portrait of Mrs. F. T. F. Lovejoy of Pittsburgh, by Edmond Amari-Jean, is shown and was very favorably criticised.

Van Dearing Perrine's "The Robbers" was well liked. It is an unusual sort of painting and attractive on that ground.

A Pretty Group in a Corner.

At the southwest corner of the main gallery had been grouped a collection of paintings of remarkably similar tints and tones. All are of the lighter and fainter colors and shades and the combination is very pleasant.

Childe Hassam, who is to be one of the speakers at the celebration of the founder's day exercises at the institute today, is represented in the exhibition by "Two Jonquils," a very pretty painting of a woman with a vase of flowers.

In the entire collection there is but one with a sacred subject. That one is William Strang's "Emmaeus," a scene of the meeting of Christ with the disciples. It is in the International society's exhibit in the east gallery and has been rather severely criticised.

Joseph De Camp's "Portrait of a Boy" and Frank Fowler's portrait of William Dean Howells, the author, also were both well liked.

Francis Davis Millet is represented by two paintings, "Forget-Me-Not," and "Proposal," although not being prominently they received much favorable comment. Millet's work is well known here.

Portrait: "Woman in White Waist," by Robert Henri of New York.

IN THE THEATERS.

Offerings of Unusual Strength and Excellence Will Be on View in Local Playhouses.

Richard Mansfield will be here next week to reveal his much admired Karl Heinrich, crown prince of Sachen-Karlsburg, in Meyer-Foster's internationally successful play of German university student life, "Old Heidelberg." The comedy tells a simple, sweet, romantic, touching story, and Mr. Mansfield's adaption of the German subject will do justice to its characteristic German blending of poetry, symbolism, joviality, sentiment, sadness and humor. The character of the prince seems exactly suited to Mr. Mansfield's peculiar temperament and style, and it could not have been more fortunately chosen.

In "Mary of Magdala," the historical and romantic drama of Jerusalem under the rule of Rome, by Paul Heyse, in which Mrs. Fiske will be seen at the Duquesne theater next Monday, will be presented a play in which every effort has been made to reproduce the life and its surroundings of the time with which it deals. In no drama yet produced have there been seen more veritable pictures in scenery, costuming, and the innumerable accessories that go to the adequate and artistic representation of antique life than will be seen in "Mary of Magdala," upon which the foremost artists in various fields worked for months and other months of study and research. The play illustrates as perfectly as is possible on the stage in acting and in material things a story whose interest touches the whole world.

A production of great beauty will occupy the stage of the Grand next week, when Eleanor Merron's delightful rural drama "The Fatal Card" with the prestige of unusually long runs in four of the largest American cities will introduce every member of the stock company, in addition to Mr. Hugo, who, the latter will have a congenial character especially suited to his peculiar talents. Mr. Huffman will elaborate original scene models, showing a series of the handsomest stage pictures of country life ever produced on a Pittsburgh stage.

Chauncey Olcott, the ever popular, the rollicking, curly-headed fellow who commands the extravagant adoration of so many thousands, will be the card at the Bijou for the next two weeks, and the standing room sign will go out early. Mr. Olcott has a new play, styled "Terence," which is said to give him the greatest possible scope for both his talents as an actor and his delightful singing voice. The story rings with Irish wit, and Chauncey Olcott is the one who can get out of it all that there is to be had. In "Terence" he plays the part of a young Irishman, born of the gentry.

The attraction at the Empire theater next week will be the musical gaity "Shooting the Chutes." In this comedy Sweeney, a retired milkman of means, journeys to the seashore in search of diversion. There, he meets Martin Hogan, a theatrical manager, who knows it all, has seen it all, and is willing to impart his knowledge to any one provided with a well filled purse and an empty head. Hogan, with the assistance of several compadres, shows Sweeney things that Sweeney declares never grew anywhere except in that particular spot and at the exact moment that he happened to be there.

An exceptionally brilliant bill or refined vaudeville at the Avenue family theater next week will be headed by Miss Mabel McKinley. The program will be composed of fifteen excellent acts. Chief among the entertainers will be three wonderful acrobats, the Four Bard brothers, who made such a big hit at the Avenue last season; Ganaro & Bailey, singers, dancers and comedians; Matthews and Ashley, comedians; Duncan, ventriloquist; Mark Sullivan in monologue and songs, and others.

The show that always draws the crowd and entertains, comes to the Academy next week with everything that pertains to a corker in every particular. Rob Manchester's Famous Cracker Jacks, with everything new except the name, this season. It knocks all others in the shade and comprises a series of excellent novelty, in humor of burlesque, evidence of splendid voices and beauty of chorus the Crackerjacks are winners.

Burton Holmes Season Started.

Burton Holmes, the eminent lecturer on travel, whose annual series have become acknowledged factors in the social and amusement life of this city, has just finished his first week of this, his eleventh season on the lecture platform. His series for this season is devoted exclusively to the capitals of Europe, the material for the entire five lectures having been gathered by him this last summer. The entire series of five lectures will be given at Carnegie hall, Pittsburgh, on successive Thursday evenings, beginning November 19, and three of the lectures, "The Yosemite," "The Yellowstone" and "Alaska II.," will be given in Carnegie hall, Allegheny, on Friday evenings, November 27 and 4 and December 18. The sale for both the Pittsburgh and Allegheny courses begins at Mellor's, No. 319 Fifth avenue on Thursday, November 12.

INSPECTORS TO KEEP BOYS OUT OF MINES

WILKESBARRE, PA., Nov. 4.—A meeting of the mine inspectors of the anthracite region was held in this city today and important action was taken touching the enforcement of the mine laws and the prevention of boys working in the coal breakers or mines under the legal age. A resolution was adopted that on and after November 5, 1903, all parents whose children shall appear to be under the legal age of 16 years, must furnish the superintendent of the colliery at which they are employed, affidavits setting forth the age of the child, and that the mine inspectors will demand an examination of these certificates on their rounds of inspection.

Tancred Commandery Reception.

The drill corps of Tancred commandery, Knights Templar, last night inaugurated a series of handsome receptions and banquets which will be given this winter in the South Highland auditorium. Over 300 guests accepted the invitation and the first reception was a brilliant success. The ballroom, where dancing was the principal feature, was elaborately decorated with flags, which appeared over the walls and about the stage. An orchestra played throughout the evening. Supper was served in the banquet hall, where the tables were decorated with flowers and tropical plants. Card tables were placed in the smaller rooms on the lower floor, where during the evening many of the Knights and their ladies gathered for a game of euchre. Several prizes were awarded. The remaining receptions this season will be held on the evenings of December 9, January 13 and February 17.

LONG SEPARATION ENDS SUDDENLY

While Visiting Lawrenceville Mills S. D. Meanor of Cincinnati Finds Relatives.

WAS MISSING FOR 32 YEARS

Men Who Left Home Nearly a Third of a Century Ago to See the World Brought Together Through Similarity of Names.

After an unsuccessful search continuing for nearly a third of a century and when all hope of finding his brother and cousin had about been abandoned by their families, S. D. Meanor of Cincinnati unexpectedly met his long-lost brother in Lawrenceville yesterday. He later was introduced to his cousin and the good news was immediately telegraphed to the old folks in Ohio and they will arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow to meet their son and nephew after a seperation extending over 32 years.

Mr. Meanor, who is visiting at the home of his cousin, W. C. McCullough, a representative of the Keystone Commercial Company, visited the Lawrenceville districts to inspect the iron mills. The similarity of his name and that of a man at one of the plants led to an introduction, and explanations brought out the fact that the two men are brothers and that the cousin is also a resident of this city.

The long hunt for the brother and cousin started 32 years ago, when Charles Meanor and his cousin, A. Alskin, each 8 years old, left their homes in Cincinnati to see the world. Their continued absence caused great worry to their families and a search was instituted, but nothing was ever heard of the whereabouts of the boys. Detectives were finally employed to endeavor to find the boys, but they were also unsuccessful and finally the search was abandoned by the families a few years ago. The boys since leaving home have made a tour of the world and, during the two wars, Mr. Meanor has arranged to have his parents meet his brother and cousin at the Hotel Henry tomorrow evening.

PITTSBURGHER'S ROMANCE HAS SEQUEL IN CHICAGO

Edward Browarsky of This City Is Wedded to Miss Smith of Chicago.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—One of the most pleasing little romances disclosed by a Chicago marriage this season is one that has become known, now that Miss Bessie Smith of No. 240 Campbell avenue has become the bride of Edward Browarsky, a young merchant of Pittsburgh.

Miss Smith, who is the daughter of Bernard Smith, was loved by Browarsky even before he had seen her. In visiting a friend in Chicago two years ago the young merchant was shown a photograph of Miss Smith. It attracted him at the time, and he did not rest contented until he had seen the girl.

The ceremony was performed last evening in the presence of a large number of friends of the contracting parties, several having come from Pittsburgh. The Rev. Dr. Levi of the Temple of B'Nai Abraham officiated. The bride's father gave her away. The matron of honor was Mrs. Lillian Harris of Pittsburgh, and the bridemaids were the Misses Tillie and Lillian Smith, her sisters. Harry B. Smith, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

The bride received many costly presents, the groom's consisting of a pearl necklace, while her father gave her a check for $2,500. Mr. and Mrs. Browarsky have departed for the south.

In Omaha the Republicans elected their candidates for district judges, county judge, county assessor, surveyor and minor officers, and the Democrats elected clerk of the district court, county sheriff and county treasurer.

PITTSBURGH BREWING COMPANY'S BEST YEAR

Increase Shown All Around in the Report at the Annual Meeting Yesterday.

An increase of $355,625 in gross earnings and of $50,689 in net earnings was shown by the year's report of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company, made public at the annual meeting of the stockholders yesterday. The report told in detail of the most successful year the company has had in the five years of its existence. It produced last year 1,030,792 barrels of beer, an increase of 19,084 barrels over 1902.

All the directors of the company were re-elected, as follows: Leopold Vilsack, H. E. Wainwright, F. W. Mueller, E. J. Frauenheim, Frederick Gwinner, C. F. Straub, Joseph A. O'Neill, Marcus Aaron and William Rooke.

President Mueller called attention to the fact that at no time during the year has the company been a borrower but on the contrary $75,000 was provided for the sinking fund, and the company invested $278,245 out of its surplus in its own bonds.

The total net earnings for the year were $2,428,168.84, from which was deducted for depreciation, etc., $500,000 interest on bonds and dividends on both common and preferred stock aggregated $1,104,253.52. The balance, $824,449.32, was added to the surplus, making that aggregate $2,621,739.05. Following is a record of the company's earnings since its formation:

	Gross	Net

Stocks and bonds held by the company (not including bonds held in the sinking fund nor in the treasury for investment) include 181 bonds, 7,008 shares of preferred stock and 10,755 shares of common.

The company's stocks were firm on change yesterday, an advance being scored on the one sale made.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or officinal names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by billiousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

There are two kinds of emulsions of cod liver oil—Scott's and all the others. Not one of the latter is as valuable as Scott's Emulsion and there's a reason for it. Only the purest ingredients enter our Emulsion and its quality never varies. That is why it helps when all others fail.

There's not much oil in the market now; it's scarce and high in price. But seal oil and other inferior oils are cheap and plentiful. That's why you can buy so many substitutes for Scott's Emulsion at a lower price.

We guarantee our Emulsion to be the best remedy for weak lungs, low vitality and wasting conditions. Who guarantees the others?

M'CLELLAN WON BY 63,617 VOTES

Revised Returns Increase the Democratic Plurality in New York City.

CANAL IMPROVEMENT CARRIES

One Hundred Million Dollars to Be Spent for the Betterment of the State's Waterways—Mayor-Elect Is Congratulated by Gen. Miles.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Nov. 4.

The revised returns from all the election districts in the greater city received today that George B. McClellan is elected mayor by a plurality of 63,617 which is nearly 1,000 more than his estimated plurality late last night. Grout, the Tammany candidate for controller ran ahead of McClellan by 3,183. The vote for W. S. Devery played no part in the general result. He polled only 2,935 votes. Tammany will control the next board of aldermen by a vote of 84 to 25.

Revised returns show that the New York state 1,000-ton barge canal proposition was carried yesterday by 270,000 majority. Lack of figures last night caused the belief that it was defeated by the upstate counties not directly in the line of the proposed waterway. Plans are already under way to push the canal as rapidly as posible. It is to cost $100,000,000.

Mayor-elect McClellan's personal mail has accumulated, and he has at least 200 congratulatory letters and telegrams to answer. He received a great many telegrams today, one of which was from Gen. Nelson A. Miles. It was from Altoona, Pa., and read as follows:

"My heartiest congratulations and best wishes."

District Attorney Jerome this evening plainly indicated that he was still full of fight, and that he intended to have the laws of the city obeyed and enforced.

"If they think they are going to have an open town they have made the biggest mistake of their lives," he declared. "I am going after the gamblers and the divekeepers, and I am going to get the evidence. If this city wants the spectacle of its district attorney applying to private funds for the purpose of enforcing the laws, that spectacle will be shown. I can get all the money I want."

NEW BANKS INDICATE CONTINUED PROSPERITY

Fifty-Seven Financial Institutions Are Organized During October.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Officials of the treasury department call attention to the statistics of the organization of new national banks during October as supporting the contention so frequently made that the present depression of stocks in Wall street is not seriously affecting the business of the country outside of the eastern states.

These statistics show that the west and the south, with large crops of all the great farm staples harvested and with good prices for whatever the farmer has to sell assured, are going along utterly unmindful of the slump of stock values in the east. While capitalists in the eastern and New England states are hesitating about embarking capital into new enterprises there is no such feeling in the other sections of the country.

This is shown by the fact that of the 57 new national banks organized during October with an aggregate of $2,500,000 capital stock, all but seven were organized in the west and south, and these sections of the country contributed all but $205,000 of the new capital, or a total of $2,295,000.

The conclusion drawn from this and from other evidences of the continued prosperity of the farming communities is that there is nothing the matter with the business of the country as a whole. The prosperity for the farmer means prosperity for the railroads and ultimately for every branch of industry and that, as a consequence, the depression that has been made manifest principally on the stock exchange will soon pass away and be succeeded by a season of prosperity that will be the more healthy as a result of the elimination of speculative and fictitious values.

MEMBERS PREVENTED NEW PREMIER FROM SPEAKING

Interruption of Debate Caused Hungarian Diet to Break Up in Tumult.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BUDAPEST, HUNGARY, Nov. 4.—Count Stephen Tisza's first appearance in the capacity of premier before the lower house of the Hungarian diet today showed that the opposition is determined to maintain its obstructive tactics. The new ministers waited two hours while opposition members made speeches on the subject of Count Apponyi's resignation of the presidency of the house.

It was openly rumored in the lobby that the sole purpose of the debate was to prevent Count Tisza from delivering his speech outlining the program of the government. Finally Count Tisza, at the head of the cabinet, entered the house and demanded that the emperor's letter, appointing him premier, should be read, so that he could proceed with business.

This was the signal for turbulent scenes, the opposition protesting that Count Tisza had violated the privileges of the house by interrupting the debate. Amidst the uproar the clerk of the house read the emperor's letter, but he was quite inaudible. Count Tisza attempted to address the house, but in the general tumult he could not be heard and the sitting was suspended.

FLAGMAN IS BLAMED.

Coroner's Jury Holds Him Responsible for the Washington Crossing Disaster.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 4.—The coroner's jury that investigated the accident at Washington crossing, on the Belvidere division of the Pennsylvania railroad, on October 17, which resulted in the death of 14 men and injuring 40 more, rendered a verdict today.

The blame is placed on Jacob Saums, flagman of the wrecked work train, for not having gone back sufficient distance to properly warn the second train. The conductors of both trains were censured for not having warned the engineer of the second train that the first train would stop at Washington crossing.

STEEL SHARES SOLD CLOSE TO LOW RECORD

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—United States Steel shares were a feature of the stock market today after a long period of quiet. They sold close to the low prices on record. A drive was made against them about noon, in which a few traders participated, and during it the preferred went down to 87½ and the common touched 12¾. These are within a fraction of the bottom quotations made in October. The only rumors connected with the decline were those dealing with cuts in the products of the corporation.

FIFTH WARD SALE IS SIGNIFICANT

Property on Fountain Street Changed Hands, the Consideration Being $50,000.

THREE SALES IN THE EAST END

C. F. Rankin Leaves Union Realty Company—Big Addition to Clairton—A Church Deal in Homestead—Allegheny Residence Sold.

A Fifth ward sale of more than usual significance was disclosed yesterday. The property sold is that of Mrs. E. O. H. McKnight in the west side of Fountain street, between Strawberry alley and Seventh avenue. The reputed buyer is H. P. Phillips and the consideration $50,000. The lot is nearly square, measuring 66x78 feet, and having erected on it a number of frame buildings suitable for warehouse purposes. It adjoins the Harmar Denny buildings. The chief advantage of the property is that it is on the line of the proposed extension of Grant street boulevard by way of Dante alley to Sixth avenue. When Fountain street is widened to conform to the proposed route this property will be practically a corner lot and its value for a business location will be greatly enhanced. Considerable interest is manifested in the proposed improvement, and options are being sought on a number of properties in the neighborhood. An offer of $1,000 was lately declined for the holdings of Mary O'Neill, 20x80 feet, at Nos. 615-617 Webster avenue. The last deals made for property near the one sold yesterday were the sales of two Webster avenue properties last June through the office of C. C. Hamilton. The holdings of James J. Flannery and the P. McKenna heirs at Nos. 616-622, measuring 66x110 feet, were sold for about $60,000 and the Dwyer property at Nos. 807-811, measuring 28x49 feet, brought $8,000.

Three East End Transactions.

Three good East End sales have been consummated, two in the Twentieth and one in the Nineteenth ward. The property of William H. Eichbaum, Jr., at the northeast corner of Shady avenue and Howe street has been bought by a Pittsburgh business man for $19,000. It has a frontage of 26 feet in Shady avenue, 125 feet in Howe street and runs rows down to a depth of 150 feet in the rear. The residence is a 13-room brick house with modern improvements and was bought for a home. The deal is credited to the Commonwealth Real Estate & Trust Company.

E. J. Shellenberger, resident manager of the Century Architectural & Engineering Co., is the buyer of the other Twentieth ward property at No. 5627 Bayard street. The former owner was Walter Lincoln and the price $25,000. The residence is a handsome center hall brick dwelling on lot 50x185 feet and is separated from the A. H. Childs property by a wide lane.

A plot of North Highland frontage measuring 100x150 feet has been sold by John Fite to William Stewart for $25,000, or $250 a foot. It is in the north side of Caldwell street. Mr. Fite had built a number of high-class houses. It is said that the present purchase was made to prevent the erection of an apartment house and that the premises will be improved with a costly residence. Its location near Highland park and near some of the finest residences in the city makes an admirable home site.

One Firm Has Left the Union.

One of the four firms which united in August 1901, to form the Union Realty Company, returned to its original name, C. F. Rankin & Co., who are now further established in a fine suite of offices at Nos. 308 and 309 Peoples bank building. Charles F. Rankin, the head of the firm, has purchased his release from the Union Realty Company, the four firms who were associated having decided not to re-enter the real estate business in this city for 10 years from the date of their union. Previous to his union with the company Mr. Rankin conducted the insurance business of C. F. Rankin & Co. While with the Union Realty Company he managed the insurance department of that concern, securing during the time the agency for Pennsylvania of the Fidelity Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Cincinnati. Five other companies are now enrolled on Mr. Rankin's list, the Glen Falls of Glen Falls, N. Y., the German-American of Baltimore, the Sun of London and the Allemania and National Union of Pittsburgh. All the records, explanations and good will of these companies have been turned over to Mr. Rankin and a large force of experienced insurance men are now employed to look after the interests of the new company. In connection with the extensive insurance business the new company will conduct a real estate mortgage business. Mr. Rankin's 18 years' experience in the insurance business and his wide acquaintance among real estate men give the new firm a sound prestige at the start.

Consolidating His Business.

The two real estate offices of A. B. Hay, Jr., one at No. 1720 Farmers bank building and the other at No. 103 West Ohio street, Allegheny, have been consolidated in rooms Nos. 609-610 in the former building. The change is for convenience and none of the business of either office will be dropped. Henry M. Pfahl, who deals extensively in coal and timber lands and who has been with Mr. Hay in his former Pittsburgh office, will share his new apartments. Glen G. Wallace, who has looked after Mr. Hay's Allegheny office, will also have his quarters in the new rooms.

The St. Clair Improvement Company has lately added to its allotment at Clairton 250 lots which are now being graded preparatory to selling them this fall. The lots average $2,000 for the choice business corners. This makes a total of over 1,900 lots which the company has laid out at this point. Since the plan was opened in 1901, 250 houses have been built. Clairton was made a borough last April and a municipal building to cost $10,000 is now being considered. The new eight-room school house was started last week and other improvements likely to be made in the steel works there promise a steady growth in the town's population next year.

Homestead Church Buys Site.

The congregation of the Reformed Hungarian church of Homestead yesterday bought from Lloyd & Heesig two lots, 50x120 feet each, in Tenth avenue facing Dixon street for $14,250. One lot is vacant and the other has on it a frame house. Some time ago the congregation had plans prepared by Architect Titus de Bobula for a stone church to cost not less than $50,000. A site was picked out then, but later the Tenth street location was decided on, and the same plans will be used. This site is near the lot bought Tuesday by the congregation of St. Michael's Roman Catholic church for a new church site. Three other churches are in the immediate neighborhood making this the church center of Homestead.

A choice residence property in the Eleventh ward, Allegheny, has been sold through T. McDonald's office for $12,000, the buyer being Architect Fred C. Sauer, who takes the property for a home. It belonged to Eugene Schmidt and consists of a modern 12-room frame house, lot 80x120 feet, in the west side of Fleming avenue between Termon avenue and Arthur street. This is the fifth time that Mr. McDonald has sold the same house.

Cornelius Kuhlewind has bought from Eleanor H. Foster an improved property, 165x200 feet, in Craig street near Center avenue, Thirteenth ward, for $18,000.

Two Buyers Made Known.

The buyers of two East End properties were made known yesterday by the delivery of the deeds. Milton L. Baird proves to have been the purchaser of the five-story apartment house which James J. Leahy and John M. O'Donnell are completing at the northwest corner of Euclid and Margaretta streets, Nineteenth ward. The building contains 20 four and five-room flats and occupies a lot 61x94 feet. The exact consideration was $57,000.

The other property sold 10 days ago through the Real Estate Trust Company for $20,000 and known as the E. M. Ferguson lot, belonged to Ralph W. Allison and was bought by Rachel M. Miller, wife of Mortimer C. Miller. It has a frontage of 100 feet on the east side of Morewood avenue 372 feet north of Castleman street and a depth of 180 feet, making the purchase price $200 a front foot. The handsome residence property of William M. Hall, Jr., adjoins the lot and the holdings of P. C. Knox are immediately in the rear. Danger of Nervousness.

Cure Should be Quick and Certain.

We can't tell what life is but the amount and quality of life in the body depends upon the health of the nerves. When the nerves are vigorous, life is powerful. When the nerves are weak and deranged, life is burdensome. The human machinery is controlled and operated wholly by the nerves. The organs are but part of the machine. If the nerves become deranged or weak, insanity, epilepsy, paralysis or heart failure is a certainty unless relief is obtained at once.

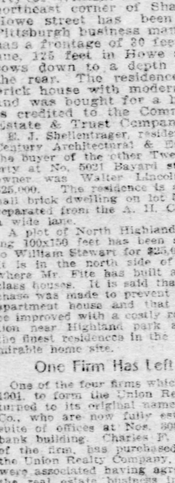
"I consider your Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer one of the world's seven wonders. I had been failing in health for several years, growing worse until I had to give up work two years ago. Since that time I treated with the doctors and took all of the advertised nerve cures until I became disgusted because they did not help me. I finally tried your Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer and less than one bottle of it put me on my feet, so that I could return to work. I consider it remarkable that such a small quantity of the medicine could accomplish so much. It certainly is a wonder." Frederick Raub, Gallitzin, Pa.

Half of the people we meet on the street lack the full measure of energy and strength that full functioned able-bodied men and women should have. Overwork, worry, dissipation, bad habits, lack of sleep and excesses of various kinds, sap their vitality, waste their energy and exhaust their strength.

They need revitalizing. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer is undoubtedly the greatest vitalizing tonic known to medical science. It regulates, sustains and strengthens all the natural functions under its influence. Absolute and permanent health is restored. It is for sale at one dollar a bottle by all druggists or is sent express prepaid on receipt of price. The J. W. Brant Co., Ltd., Albion, Mich.

Gratitude

Always seeks to find some expression for itself, and womanly gratitude will not keep silence. Cynical people sometimes say Why do women write these testimonials to the value of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? The answer can be put in one word, Gratitude. When, after years of agony a woman is freed from pain, when the weak woman is made strong and the sick woman well, the natural impulse is to write a word of grateful thanks for the medicine which caused the cure.



Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures diseases peculiar to women. It establishes regularity, stops weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Having used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' during the past year," writes Mrs. Mattie Long, of Floats Valley, Perry Co., Pa. "I can truthfully recommend the medicines for all female weaknesses. I have used several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' which I consider a great blessing to weak women. I was so nervous and discouraged that I hardly knew what to do. Your kind advice for home treatment helped me wonderfully. Thanks to Dr. Pierce."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness, and sick headache. They should be used in connection with "Favorite Prescription," whenever the use of a laxative is indicated.

Republican Candidates Won at All Points in Western Pennsylvania.

BEDFORD VOTE IS DECISIVE

Fayette County in Line—Clean Sweep in Washington—Sixty Per Cent of Voters Turned Out—Total Vote in Butler 41,000.

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 4.—Unofficial returns from 150 of the 158 election districts of Westmoreland county give the Republican candidates majorities which range from 2,500 to 3,500. Millard F. Null of Greensburg, candidate for prothonotary, will lead the ticket. He received 7,758 votes to his opponent's 5,046. Robert M. Jones of Jeannette has won for clerk of the quarter sessions by the same majority. Jesse E. B. Cunningham estimates that he will win for district attorney by 2,800.

The real contest centered in the poor director fight, the vote being: John F. Kettering, Rep., 6,910; R. O. Bovard, Rep., 6,446; Charles W. Saxman, Rep., 6,859; J. O. Truxal, Dem., 5,727; Herman Hamel, Dem., 5,245; George W. Megary, Dem., 4,442. The poor board will be made up of the first five named. The Socialist party polled its greatest number of votes in the history of Westmoreland county, one Scottdale ward having 28 votes for the candidates of that party.

BEDFORD, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Although a very light vote was polled, the Republicans of this county scored a decisive victory at yesterday's election. Following is the unofficial count: State treasurer, Mathues, 3142; Hill, 2,225; auditor general, Snyder, 3,051; Dewalt, 2,272; judge of superior court, Morrison, 3,135; Henderson, 3,112; Ward, 2,228; Rayburn, 2,159; associate judge, William Brice, 3,135; Joseph W. Tate, 2,387; poor director, Samuel Shaffer, Rep., 2,160; C. C. Snell, Dem., 2,310.

FORD CITY, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The unofficial Republican vote is: State treasurer, Mathues, 151; Hill, 107; auditor general, Snyder, 150; Dewalt, 100; superior court judge, Morrison, 139; Henderson, 138; Ward, 98. Rayburn, 118; sheriff, Erwin E. Cochrane, Rep., 144; James E. B. Douglass, Dem., 121; district attorney, James S. Culbertson, Rep., 154 (no opposition); jury commissioner, James R. Gibson, Rep., 138; D. E. Davis, Dem., 108. The vote on increasing the borough indebtedness $35,000 for water works was carried, 189 to 30.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The unofficial vote of Fayette county for state treasurer gives Mathues 2,288, Hill 2,225, Patton 1,911. The vote for jury commissioner, for which there were three candidates, with two to be elected, gives Kennedy, Rep., 3,873; Miller, Dem., 2,273; Ogievee, Pro., 2,266, electing Kennedy and Miller.

BUTLER, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Unofficial returns give the total vote cast in Butler county as 4,160. For state treasurer Mathues had 2,585, Hill, Dem., 1,571. For jury commissioner Andrew O. Eberhardt, Rep., had 2,440; Amos L. Cooper, Dem., 1,969.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The returns from every precinct in the county but two show that the Republicans made a clean sweep by a majority of about 3,000. John G. Hall, Rep., for county recorder, led the ticket. Only about 60 per cent of the voters turned out.

YORK, PA., Nov. 4.—Complete returns from this city and county up to this evening show that the Democrats have elected the entire state and county tickets by majorities averaging from less than 100 to 237. Hill for state treasurer received 6,402 votes, 6,256 for Mathues. The Socialists polled 323 votes in the county and city, the Prohibitionists 256.

OIL CITY, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The strength of the Prohibition vote cast in this city and county yesterday is a surprise to the leaders of the old parties. Fractional fights have demoralized the Democratic party, its candidate for district attorney receiving only 187 votes out of a total of 2,067 in Oil City. Their state ticket also fell behind the Prohibition vote in the city and county. The complete vote of Venango county has not been tabulated yet but it is estimated that Mathues, Snyder, Morrison and Henderson, Republicans, will have a plurality of 2,300 over the Democrats and about 1,000 over the Prohibitionists.

OPERATOR'S MISTAKE COSTS THREE LIVES

Disastrous Head-On Collision Between Freights Near Canal Dover—Several Injured.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CANAL DOVER, O., Nov. 4.—A head-on collision between two freight trains on the Bayard and New Philadelphia branch of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh about 6:20 this morning resulted in two deaths and probably fatal injuries to one other. The dead are: Fireman Bassett of Cleveland, crushed to death under the wreck; Engineer Allen Shulenberger, Wellsville, caught under the wreck; not found at 9 o'clock. Engineer Walter Stottlemire of Cambridge, O., received probably fatal injuries.

The wreck occurred at Eagle Hill, about three miles from Dover, between a Cleveland & Pittsburgh freight and a Cleveland & Marietta drag returning from the Cleveland & Marietta yards at Valley Junction over the Cleveland & Pittsburgh tracks to the Dover yards. The Cleveland & Marietta crew had right of way over the Cleveland & Pittsburgh to Dover until 7 o'clock.

Through some misunderstanding the operator at New Philadelphia let the Cleveland & Pittsburgh train out. It registered at Canal Doven at 6:10 a. m. The train had only gone about three miles when it crashed into the Cleveland & Marietta. Conductor F. C. Medidith of Wellsville, of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh, escaped and ran back to Dover to protect an approaching passenger train and give the alarm.

In addition to those given above, those injured are: C. E. Lorry, Cambridge, terribly bruised about the face; Fireman Stewart Harper, Cambridge, hand and leg crushed; Brakeman H. W. Amos, Wellsville, both legs terribly crushed. All the injured were brought to Dover and cared for.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT WAS PELTED WITH STONES

Two Students at Grove City Expelled and Twenty Suspended for Night's Fun.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GROVE CITY, PA., Nov. 4.—Two students expelled and 20 suspended for two weeks is the record of Grove City college as it emerges from yesterday's celebration of the football victory over Waynesburg. Assisted by a large number of town youths, they spent last night in wild revelry. After a parade over the streets of the town, headed by music-maker, with drums and tin horns, they proceeded to Athletic field, where a committee had gathered all the available store boxes and started a big bonfire.

About the time they arrived there Dr. I. C. Ketler, president of the college, appeared and told the students he would allow them 10 minutes to reach their rooms. The students left the fire but remained in the shadows, and when President Ketler went to tear down the pile of burning boxes the students opened a bombardment of stones which compelled him to desist.

The doctor chased the boys from the field, but they refused to go to their rooms, and later returned and added the baseball backstop to the bonfire, and in other ways continued the night's celebration. Dr. Ketler, after leaving the field, visited the different students' rooms and noted all who were absent. This morning after chapel the offenders were summoned before him with the result stated.

SHOT HIS YOUNG CAPTOR.

Italian Arrested for Poaching Makes Good His Escape.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Myron Dennison, the young son of C. S. Dennison, was shot and seriously wounded by an Italian today. Game Warden Charles Westover found an Italian hunting on the farm of Barney Reed at Lowellville and started to capture the man, taking Dennison and George Reed along. The Italian was captured and turned over to the boys by the game warden to guard while he went for a conveyance to take the man to Lowellville.

The Italian turned his gun on Dennison, emptying the load in the boy's face, and shooting away one eye. Reed grabbed Dennison's gun and fired at the man, but missed him. The man emptied his remaining barrel at Reed and then fled.

THE PRESIDENT PLEASED WITH RESULTS

Mr. Roosevelt Congratulates Senator Hanna and Chairman Penrose.

VICTORIES ARE SIGNIFICANT

Wherever There Were Straight Issues Between the Parties the Republicans Polled Increased Majorities—New York Contest Purely Local.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Room 10, Postal Building, WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.

President Roosevelt is well pleased with the results of Tuesday's elections. He makes no secret of the fact that he would like to have seen the Republicans carry Maryland and Seth Low elected mayor of New York, but he realizes that this was an off year and that too much could not be expected. Wherever the issue was a straight one between the Republicans and Democrats the Republican ticket polled increased majorities. New York's was a local city fight with no issues except those affecting the residents.

Maryland Republicans were split up into factions over the candidacy of Senator McComas for re-election and for that reason the result could not be construed as a repudiation of Republicanism. But in Ohio it was a straight fight between Democrats and Republicans and the returns tell the story. President Roosevelt was especially pleased at the great victory of Herrick and Hanna and he sent the senator a message of congratulation. Late last night he received the following message from Gen. Dick at Columbus:

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.

The Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, Washington, D. C.:

Returns at midnight indicate a plurality for Col. Herrick for governor of 125,000 and Senator Hanna 115 out of a total of 143 votes in the legislature, a majority on joint ballot of 87. CHARLES DICK, Chairman.

The president also feels that Pennsylvania did herself proud in the handsome majority that was rolled up for the ticket. Senator Penrose sent the following telegram to the President:

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.

The Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, Washington, D. C.:

State treasurer and rest of ticket elected by over 200,000 majority. This is the largest majority ever given in the state in an off year. BOIES PENROSE, Chairman.

The president replied with a congratulatory message. A number of senators and representatives called at the white house today to felicitate the president upon the results of the elections and all of the Republicans expressed the opinion that the results were very flattering to the party.

Gorman Comes to Smiling.

Senator Gorman of Maryland came to Washington today, wearing a smile and a general air of self satisfaction. And he has reason to be satisfied, since it is the general opinion that by Maryland going Democratic yesterday, Gorman's chances for receiving the Democratic nomination for president are materially advanced. Today he declined to discuss the election further than to say that he was pleased with the result in his state. He could not be induced to discuss his chances for the presidential nomination. When the campaign waxed warm in Maryland and the Republicans began fighting among themselves over the re-election of McComas to the senate, Gorman was just wise enough to size up the situation and see an opportunity. Up to that time he had remained in the background, but when the opportunity presented itself so alluringly to him, he leaped into the arena and began making speeches in which he criticised the president and brought the race question to the front.

He saw that with the Republican ranks divided there was a good chance for Democratic success, in which event he would get the credit for a victory and by playing up the race question he thought he might make it appear that Maryland had rebuked Mr. Roosevelt's attitude. And so Gorman has "got away with the goods" to the extent that he has corralled the credit for carrying Maryland. Consequently he acts like a man who has a presidential nomination in his vest pocket.

Mr. Knox Sees the President.

Attorney General Knox today held a conference with the president, at which Representatives Cannon and Hemenway were present. Mr. Knox advised that no congressional inquiry into the postoffice department be instituted for the present as has been talked of, for the reason that such an investigation would result in weakening the government's case. The same witnesses on whom the government is depending for conviction in a number of cases would have to be brought here to testify in an investigation, and these witnesses would be compelled to reveal all the facts in their possession, thus enabling the defense to profit in every way.

The president agrees with the opinion of the attorney general in this matter, and he has advised the Republican leaders in the house to defer the congressional investigation until it can be done without prejudice to the government's case. The president is willing that there shall be a congressional inquiry, but he does not want it to interfere with the prosecution of the men against whom indictments have been returned.

Chief Wilkie Watching Anarchists.

The number of cranks who have been bothering the guards at the White House recently are believed to be in a large measure responsible for the trip to Europe that Chief Wilkie of the secret service is now taking. It is reported that the chief has gone to confer with the police officials of foreign countries about anarchists. Nihilists, and others of that ilk, and to make arrangements for keeping closer tab on their movements.

Although the men who have been arrested at the White House within the past few months are, so far as known, just ordinary cranks with "bugs" on some subject or other, yet Chief Wilkie does not discount the danger from anarchists and keeps a close watch over them. Some months ago he was abroad, and upon his return it was reported that he had taken steps looking to a co-operation with foreign police for the detection of anarchists.

Payne Ready for Work.

Representative Sereno E. Payne of New York, chairman of the committee on ways and means, came to town today. His committee will be one of the few that will have any work to do during the extra session of congress, since it will involve upon the ways and means committee to report the measure for the approval of the Cuban reciprocity treaty. Mr. Payne is undisturbed over the result of the election in New York yesterday. He says that no national issues entered into the fight, and that the result simply means that New York city is Democratic. He does not think that Wall street had any influence in it.

Best line of gloves in city

WE are without doubt showing the best line of women's gloves in the city. While every famous make, such as Jouvin, Trefousse, Alexandria, Perrin, Fowne, etc., are represented in our vast assortment, we are especially proud of those gloves made to our special order, which we bring out under our own brands. Our prices are stepping-stones to practical economy.

Most eminently suitable for particular women of Pittsburgh are our famous two-clasp lamb kid gloves, made to our special order by the best manufacturers, from best skins—all colors, in newest single embroidered backs, the clasps are enameled to match the color of the kid. We could not sell them under $1 if we offered them under the maker's name—christening them "Norma" enables us to offer them at 75c

"Juliette" is the name of by far the best $1 glove. We've sold these gloves for a number of years and have always insisted upon a better finish and better kid each year; this year's importation surpassed all others. All colors, all sizes, two or three clasp, Paris point and plain back—price 1.00

Our "Norwood" gloves—none better at $1.50. We guarantee our Norwood gloves absolutely; they're the gloves upon which we built our reputation. They come in glace and suede, two or three-clasp, Paris point back. Remember the price is only 1.50

Concerning clothing and your pocketbook

WHEN the matter of your new suit or overcoat comes up for consideration, do not settle the question off hand. Don't attach undue importance to the economy side of the matter. Buying a poorly made garment is not saving money, but wasting it. Probe deep into the merits of the clothing itself. Examine the materials; look into the lining; note carefully the tailoring; see whether the garments are correctly fashioned; try them on and observe how they fit. Do this, and it's a foregone conclusion that you'll select your suit or overcoat from our stock, for our clothing not only possesses superiority in all the foregoing points, but our prices are as low as any—LOWER than many.

8.50

Belted-back overcoats

We're selling twice as many "belted-backs" as any other style of overcoats. There's a certain graceful hang about these coats that makes them instantly appeal to the artistic instincts of nobby young dressers. Fashion gives you liberty to please yourself as to material. You can get a splendid belted-back for 15.00 — the very finest at 38.00.

15.00 to 33.00

Finest dress suits

The young men who are most exacting as to style-requirements and all-around clothing excellence are loudest in their praises of our extra fine and finest attire. We've conclusively proven to them that no tailors can improve upon these garments. The materials are equally fine, the styles equally swell, the fit just as perfect. Prices 15.00 to 38.00.

8.50

Men's $10 and $12 suits and overcoats

"Good" in its strictest sense applies to every suit or overcoat in this $8.50 line. The materials are good, the thread used in the making is good, the linings are good—everything about these garments is good. The suits can be had in three and four-button single and double-breasted styles—the overcoats in the short, medium or extra long lengths. The materials, too, give a wide field for choice. And no matter what your build, you can get a perfect fit.

An important challie event

HERE'S most interesting news indeed; one of the largest dress goods manufacturers saw which way the wind was blowing and realized that challies would be "all the go" this fall—and overproduced. As a result, he was compelled to pocket a loss instead of profit. The profit that he should have realized now goes to you.

250 pieces of lovely satin striped challies were included in our purchase, making all in all the handsome collection of these goods we've shown for many a day—printed in exquisite floral and figured designs on white and colored grounds, in the most desirable shades for house gowns, dressing sacques and children's dresses. 30c is the lowest price we've heretofore been able to offer equally fine goods—while this purchase lats, we are able to take 14c off the price—choice for only, yard, 25c

38 in. pure wool venetian and covert cloth suiting, in the most favored shades for fall wear—regular 65c quality, yd., 49c

38 in. fancy boucle suitings—very stylish and durable fabric for coat suits, handsome color combinations—50c quality, special for this sale today at, yard, 39c

Stylish dress materials—various weaves, in new designs and shades for house gowns and children's dresses—50c quality, special for this sale today at, yd., 29c

BLOOMER READY TO DO BATTLE

UNABLE TO AGREE ON BUSINESS END

East End and W. and J. Liable to Play at Washington—W. U. P. to Disband.

PRACTICE AT PREP. SCHOOLS

It is not outside the range of probability that the East End-W. and J. football game, scheduled for Thanksgiving day, will be decided in Washington, the home of the red and black colloglans. Disagreement in Pittsburgh. There is one thing already settled and it is that the game will not be played at Friendship park, and if it does come to Pittsburgh, the Colosseum will be the scene of the battle. For this game Exposition park is out of the question.

Manager Tutt of the W. and J. eleven, yesterday, met with the representatives of the East End club, and after they had been in conference for over two hours, it was announced that affairs are still in an unsettled state. W. and J., it is understood, has not yet signed the agreement for the game, but will play, provided East End lives up to the agreement, which is reported to be that there will an equal division of the gate receipts and four Blast End football players in other words, Wash-Jeff wants and will get 50 per cent of the gross receipts.

The Colosseum management wants 20 per cent of the receipts of the game, but East End, it is claimed, does not wish to let that amount of the money go for the use of a park and rather than do so is willing to transfer the game to Washington.

Washington and Jefferson does not wish to play at Friendship park, because it claims the park is a few yards short of being the regulation field. Then again the parties who have use of the park when high school is not playing, is also looking for their "bit," or in plain words want a percentage of the gate receipts. The park should be free, as it belongs to high schools.

State College is willing to play W. and J. in Pittsburgh Thanksgiving, but it is not likely they will meet. State has raised the eligibility rule declaring that all men to be eligible for the game, and Manager Tutt of W. and J. will not consent to the game unless it is played at Exposition park, as it is the only field in the two cities of Pittsburgh. The president of Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh baseball club, is not willing to give up the park for football, and so that place seems to be out of the question.

State will not meet the West Virginia university in Pittsburgh Saturday, as was intended. The ruling of the West Virginia faculty in declaring Captain Kisk ineligible to play on the team, put a big damper on the enthusiasm and at the same time greatly weakened the playing strength of the team. West Virginia is in hard luck this year. Not only has a game called off to which arrangement State was willing. This game would have been decided at the Colosseum had it not been cancelled.

The Western University of Pennsylvania has concluded its schedule. W. U. P. has put in a very unsuccessful year. The players refused to come out for practice and Coach Adams was utterly unable to do battle with the eleven. Talk about next year's team which has been prevalent for some time, will soon be in order. The latest rumor is that Joe Thompson, the mainstay of the Geneva team, will enter W. U. P. next fall and with him will come four and possibly five other Geneva players. Among them will be Jud Schmidt, a former Pittsburg high school captain, who was considered one of the best halfbacks ever at high school. Coach Moore is wanted to return and this he will do, if feasible, and might have helped the team by giving its aid.

The Pittsburgh high school eleven will not play the Raven high school Saturday at Youngstown, as was forecasted in The Gazette of Monday. The players did not favor the trip and it was then called off. Manager Spiller yesterday arranged to play the fast Pittsburgh college reserves tomorrow afternoon at Friendship park. Coach James had the high school squad out yesterday and put it through one of the hardest practices of the season.

The first team was pitted against the scrubs and both worked up and down the field for almost an hour. The college reserves have been doing very well this season among their victories it one over East Liberty academy.

The weights of the players who will be in the high school game tomorrow are: Gagnor, left end, 140; Fuhrer, left tackle, 170; Ayer, left guard, 141; Nellan, right half, 141; Reihan, quarterback, 145; Ayers, right end, 150; Campbell, left end, 322; Duff, left tackle, 159; McLaughlin, left guard, 157; Whalen, right guard, 154; Baum, right guard, 142; Stalb, center, 165; Rankin, right tackle, 150. The team average is 144 pounds. The collegians are practicing daily on the high and will present a very formidable lineup against Coach James' students tomorrow.

It was a day of rest for the Shadyside academy team yesterday. Coaches Young and Shetter gave the players Wednesday off this week, provided there is not a very important game for Saturday. The team has no game for this week, but Monday at Friendship park it will meet the Kiski school eleven in their annual game. However, practice will be resumed today and one of the strongest players on the team will be missing. Jay Hall, who did such good work on left back on the Kiski game last fall and who was showing fine form this season, leaves for North Carolina today to spend part of the winter in Hamilton. Hall is troubled with asthma at times, and goes south to recover and regain his health. He also was one of the strongest players on the hockey team, which won the championship last year.

Shadeside is looking for Kiski to spring a surprise of some kind next Monday and the Saltsburg contingent is liable to do this very thing. Capt. Caughey of Kiski has inaugurated two practices daily. In the afternoons he has the teams out for scrimmage work and then in the evening the players are taken to the gymnasium where signal practice is done for an hour. This signal practice work in the gym is an innovation at Kiski. The team is showing speed and endurance in the scrimmage work, and in a special telegram to The Gazette last night Caughey said that the team will be in the best condition of the year when it meets Shadyside.

The regular team will be sent against the East Enders Monday with the possible exception of Bakewell, a Brownsville boy, who will be put at left tackle, Gordon going right end and Heidrick to the side lines. Bakewell did well in the Connellsville game last Saturday, but the move of positions is nothing more than a probability.

The East Liberty academy is scheduled to play the Washington and Jefferson academy at Washington Saturday. Watt Carr, who was appointed captain Monday may not be able to play, as he sprained his ankle badly in the game with the Washington high school Wednesday at Washington. There was no practice yesterday at East Liberty.

Wash-Jeff at Practice Again.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The Wash-Jeff football team had the first hard practice of the week at College park this afternoon. The varsity scored repeatedly against the strong scrub eleven. Sutter returned from his Ohio home this morning and will be given a rest until Saturday. He has a ligament in his shoulder torn loose. Tomorrow's practice will be the last of the week.

BLOOMER TO PLAY IN GAME SATURDAY

Yale's Big Linesman Is Being Toughened for Argument With Syracuse.

HARVARD'S LAST PRACTICE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 4.—G. Foster Sanford spent several hours today with candidates for center and guard positions on the Yale football eleven. Roraback was at center, Norton and Bloomer at guards in the secret work, but later when the gates were thrown open Norton was played at center, with Batcheider and Miller as guards.

In the morning practice was held on the gymnasium lot under Sanford's coaching. He worked long against Scott, a husky scrub weighing about 190 pounds.

Bloomer will probably go into the lineup for a few minutes every day this week to toughen him for Saturday's game against Syracuse.

The big men complained of the heat's effect upon them. None of the regular halfbacks played today.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Harvard had her last hard practice today in preparation for the game with Pennsylvania on Saturday. For a half hour the gates were thrown open to the public, and a crowd of students availed themselves of the opportunity of seeing the team for the last time before it leaves for Philadelphia. Whatever hope they cherished about the eleven rising from its lethargy and defeating Penn was crushed out of them after they witnessed the scrub eleven push the varsity back for 25 yards and a touchdown.

Tomorrow the Crimson squad will leave for Philadelphia by the way of the Fall River boat, arriving in the Quaker City on Friday noon. While there they will stop at the Colonnade.

MT. POCONO, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Penn's football squad arrived here late last night where the final touches will be put on the preparations for the game with Harvard next Saturday. Assistant Coach Hedges arrived this morning and assisted in the work before lunch. Herring Smith, all the players are in splendid physical condition, and the big fullback is expected to be in fine trim by the time the team leaves here. The team will probably take two practices each day until Friday, when only one session of work will be in order, the team leaving for Philadelphia that afternoon.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The proposed shake up in Cornell football eleven as a result of the poor showing in the game at Princeton came at this afternoon's practice. Costello, who did much good work against Conover in Princeton tackle, was shifted from right tackle to the left side of the line to take Voris' place. Voris was played at left guard and Halliday was at left tackle.

The varsity men who played in the Princeton game reported today for the first time this week. All the men were out with the exception of Costello, Felix, McAllister and Coffin. McAllister was kept on the hill by university work.

DEMOCRATS CONTROL STATE OF MARYLAND

Returns So Far Received Indicate Big Majority in Legislature Which Elects Senator.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

BALTIMORE, Nov. 4.—At midnight the returns of Tuesday's election received from Baltimore city and the state of Maryland had not all been received. Two missing precincts in the city had been counted by the election judges, but owing to the long vigil of the clerical force in the office of the supervisors of election it was decided to close the office. The figures of the missing precincts were promised tomorrow morning.

In Baltimore city the entire Democratic state ticket, comprising Edwin Warfield of Howard county, governor; George A. Atkinson of Somerset county, comptroller and William Shepard Bryan, Jr., of Baltimore city, attorney general, were elected by about 7,000 plurality. The Democrats elected in Baltimore city three state senators and 18 members of the house of delegates by large majorities. The Republicans elected one state senator and six members of the house of delegates. William H. Green (Rep.), is apparently elected sheriff of the city by a plurality of between 100 and 200.

The returns from all of the counties of the state have not been received, but enough reports are on hand to insure an overwhelming Democratic majority on joint ballot in the general assembly, which will elect a successor to United States Senator Louis E. McComas.

From returns received at this hour it is conceded that the Democrats will have on joint ballot 82 votes in the general assembly to 41 Republican. Gov. Warfield's plurality in the state will probably reach 8,000.

DAVIS LIKELY TO PLAY WITH CHICAGO AMERICAN

Manager Comiskey Will Hold Stars Who Threatened to Leave.

Despite the fact that the baseball season closed but recently the managers of the big leagues are already beginning to sign youngsters for the next campaign. Of course where the material evidence is available, he will get the preference.

The latest now is that George Davis, the old New York shortstop, who was with Comiskey's league Americans season before last and who jumped to remain loyal to again playing in Chicago last year, will repent and again play the short field for the White Sox. Davis talked on Manager Comiskey in Chicago the other day and their conversation was of a friendly kind, and it now is very probable that he will return. Fielder Jones, who had a grievance and who said he would go to the coast to play in his Oakland team, will also stick with Comiskey, and Pitcher Henry White, who had a western engagement mapped out, will also play with Comiskey. Thus the old Roman will stand together more next spring than was expected some time ago.

Connie Selbach is the only Washington American signed thus far and his contract calls for $4,000 per year. The Senators will have a team composed largely of last young players, and will be interesting. Carrick pitchers the club will has Orth, Selbach and Patten, together with "Doc" Hilebrand of Princeton, Mason of the New York State league and Gessler of the Eastern league. For the infield, Homer Hilebrand will be on first, Moran, who once played at Greensburg, will cover short, and Coughlin will be seen at second. A battle royal for each between Barry McCormick, Osteen of Davenport and Cassidy of Providence. Drill and Clark will probably be retained as the back stops and Pitchers Hughes and Hopkins, together with Winters of Atlanta, are to be tried in the outfield. Infielder Robinson, Outfielders Jimmy Ryan and Selbach and Pitcher Townsend and Lee are likely to be dropped.

GAVE BOTH TO ARMY.

Turtle Creek Family Bereaved by Death of Second Soldier Son While in Service.

James Curtis Hall, 20 years old, son of William Hall, a former chief of police of Turtle Creek, died yesterday at Ft. Bayard, N. M. Word of his death was received by the young man's father yesterday at the family home in Turtle Creek.

Young Hall for the past two and one-half years had been a member of the Thirteenth United States artillery and about six months ago he was badly injured by a horse falling upon him and his death resulted from the accident. The remains are expected to arrive in Turtle Creek this week and they will be given a military funeral.

In 1901 John W. Hall, another son, died at San Francisco of wounds received while serving with the Forty-seventh regiment in the Philippines. His remains were buried at Turtle Creek with military honors. A coincidence in the deaths of the brothers is that both young men received their injuries while in the army and that each was 20 years old at the time of his death. Young Hall is survived by his parents and two sisters.

RUSSIA THREATENS TO TAKE CHARGE OF MANCHURIA

Ten Thousand Troops Said to Have Occupied Mukden. Japan Is Excited.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Daily Mail's Tien Tsin correspondent cables that 10,000 Russian troops have occupied Mukden. Reports from Pekin say Russia now threatens to assume sole charge of the government of Manchuria unless China promptly dismisses Yuen, the tuotl of Mukden, and decapitates another mandarin who recently punished disorderly Chinese bandits in Russian employ.

This, together with the confirmation of the reports of the reoccupation of Mukden by the Russians, and the capture of Governor Tzang, causes intense indignation in Japan, as not conforming with Russia's pacific declarations.

A Substantial
Hall Rack

The beauty of simplicity is better appreciated by furniture designers nowadays than it was a few years ago. And the result has been the evolution of a class of furniture that appeals very strongly to people of refined taste. The straight lines and general plainness of treatment that characterize the hall rack shown in the illustration contribute largely to the substantial, massive effect produced.

This hall rack is a good example of the many advanced styles shown at this store. Without any suggestion of being cumbersome it combines more conveniences than are usually found in this article of furniture. In fact, each component part of the rack represents an artistic as well as utilitarian value.

This rack comes in mahogany, weathered oak and golden oak. It is 46½ inches wide, 16 inches deep and 70 inches high. It has a bevel mirror 35½ by 19½ inches.

WOULD ABOLISH CONTRACT SYSTEM

Shallenberger Says Government Should Make Its Own Mail Equipment.

A PLANT IS RECOMMENDED

Second Assistant Postmaster General in His Annual Report Shows That the Yearly Cost of Mail Transportation Is $63,594,542.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—W. S. Shallenberger, second assistant postmaster general, today submitted his annual report to the postmaster general. It shows that the annual rate of expenditure for all classes of mail transportation service in this country is $63,594,542, and that the rate of cost per mile traveled is $12 80. There are 1,490 lines of traveling postoffices — railroad, steamboat and electric car—covering 189,298 miles in length, with 10,555 employes. It is estimated that the railway postal clerks handled during the year 13,969,802,630 pieces of mail matter, exclusive of registered matter, and 1,387,094 errors were reported in their distribution, a ratio of one error to 11,530 correct distributions.

During the year there were 375 casualties to mail cars, in which 18 clerks and four other employes were killed, and 78 clerks seriously and 268 slightly injured. There were 500,577,902 pounds of paid second-class matter received from publishers and 36,307,834 pounds carried within the county of publication free of charge, making an aggregate of 272,921 tons.

Mr. Shallenberger says he is inclined to think that the contract system of purchasing mail equipment should be abandoned and the government manufacture its own equipment.

A deficiency approximating $450,000 is anticipated in the expenditure for railroad transportation for the current year and $100,000 in wagon mail service. The latter deficiency is due to the recent failure of the contractor for the service in New York and the re-letting of the route.

Mr. Shallenberger says that if some feasible plan can be devised for deducting a small percentage from the salary of every employe of this service, thereby creating a fund for the retirement of superannuated and incapacitated clerks, it would result in great benefit to the service.

The report says that the manufacture of mail bags and other material by private contractors has been unsatisfactory and recommends that a suitable plant be built and all the work done by the postoffice department.

SOCIETY

EXCEEDINGLY brilliant was the wedding last evening in Calvary Protestant Episcopal church, of Miss Marion McLean Seilers, daughter of Mrs. H. D. W. English, and Robert Pitcairn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pitcairn.

The church was filled with wedding guests, 800 invitations having been issued. The superb decorations of the interior, the exquisite gowns of the bride and her bevy of maids, and the brilliant costumes of the guests, completed an ensemble notable among the list of brilliant weddings which have taken place in Calvary church.

The Rev. Dr. J. H. McIlvain, rector of Calvary, read the marriage service at 8 o'clock, assisted by the assistant rector, the Rev. D. L. Ferris. The bride was given away by her stepfather H. D. W. English. Miss Ellen Seilers, a sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and the six bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Reed and Miss Genevieve Bushman of Pittsburgh, Miss Elizabeth Moody of St. Paul, Miss Martha Rockwell of Bristol, Conn.; Miss Edith English of New York and Miss Margaret Tyler of Kansas City. William R. Trainer acted as best man for Mr. Pitcairn while the ushers were John Hussey, David King Irwin, Joseph Guffey, George Hailman and Edward Mellon of Pittsburgh; E. A. McAlpen, Jr., of New York, John Reilly and George Crozier of Philadelphia.

The bridal gown, was very handsome. It was fashioned of white liberty satin and trimmed with point lace. It was princess in effect; the bodice was almost covered with the lace while the sleeves, extremely long and full, were of point applique. The skirt, terminating in the full court train, over which fell the veil of tulle, fastened with orange blossoms, was trimmed with point lace gracefully looped in garlands across the front and sides, while the linings were a frou-frou of chiffon ruffings. The bride's only jewels were a necklace of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

The maid of honor wore a gown of pompadour chiffon taffeta, with indistinct pink rosebuds appearing over its surface. The skirt had no train and was finished with a pink ribbon sash. The maid of honor wore two large pink ribbon bows placed on each side and low in the hair.

The bridesmaids' gowns were exquisitely dainty. Composed of white chiffon cloth over white silk, the skirts were full and the bodices, with soft shirrings about the low cut neck and the waist, and puffed elbow sleeves, were finished with a deep berthe of chiffon cloth inset with Irish point lace and French valenciennes. The distinguishing feature of the gowns were the small wreaths of tiny pink roses, one of these little wreaths appearing on the front of each bodice, with a drag of white tulle reaching to the knee. Two rows of the wreaths appeared upon the skirts below the knees, the drag of tulle from each of the upper wreaths reaching to those in the lower row.

Mrs. English, the bride's mother, wore a handsome gown of pale blue louisine laid in box plaits, the upper space between the plaits being finished in tiny diagonal tucks, the flare between the plaits extending below the knees, in gay-leaf panels of lace inset. The lace was a novelty, with a pattern of grape leaves in imitation of panne velvet. The bodice consisted of groups of the tiny diagonal tucks and was trimmed with the same lace.

The bridesmaids carried bouquets of lilies of the valley and bonsilene roses, tied with pink ribbon and white mallne. The bridal bouquet consisted of orchids and lilies of the valley, arranged in a shower. The maid of honor carried white roses.

The wedding colors were green and white. Immense clusters of white chrysanthemums were placed at the sides of the chancel, tall palms being stationed in the rear. The chancel rail was outlined with the same blossoms, while here and there a glorious bunch of pink, in which the delicate shade as hardly to be discernible from the rest of the flowers, was seen. The windows were banked in green and smilax trailed about the back of the church, and over the organ loft ferns sprinkled into the decorative scheme around the altar. Many pretty effects were obtained at the home of the bride's parents in Fifth avenue, where the wedding reception and supper were held after the ceremony. The large porch, extending across was enclosed, and lighted by electricity. Here small tables were placed for the supper, it was converted into a woodland scene. Potted old-gold and autumn leaves and smilax, completely covering the awning and ceiling of the porch. The guests entered the house only through the portechere. The large reception hall was decorated with white chrysanthemums. The library, with its walls of dark blue and oak wainscoting, was done with white chrysanthemums, but the lights were covered with shades of different hues, giving a soft effect to the room. The drawing room is finished in pink and white. Large clusters of pink roses were placed on the mantel which was banked in fullgrowne fern. Roses were also placed at either end of the bay windows filled with palms. The dining room and library were occupied by supper tables having centerpieces of white orchids with just a touch of pink roses, the tables trailed over the green curtains and portiers in the dining room.

After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Pitcairn will reside with Mr. and Mrs. English until the completion of their own home in Anderson avenue next spring. No dates have been announced for at homes.

Exquisite gowns were worn by the wedding guests. Mrs. Sellers, the grandmother of the bride, wore a gown of mother of and Miss Minnie Sellers, black lace de chine. Miss Marion Clarke wore Dresden chiffon with a white crepe de chine. Miss Marion Clarke wore Dresden chiffon with a white beaver hat trimmed with white plumes. Mrs. R. Pitcairn, mother of the bridegroom, appeared in an exquisite creation of white and gold, an imported gown. A court bow of pink tulle fell from the neck to the edge of the train. She also wore a headdress of ribbon and flowers. Mrs. W. A. Crabbe was gowned in hand painted chiffon and lace and Mrs. Oscar Boyd Booker in white and gold, while Mrs. Charles L. Taylor wore pink satin and gold, and Miss Lily Taylor was prettily gowned in chiffon over blue. Mrs. Harry Sellers, daughter of black point d'esprit and her costume of Sellers, were light blue. Mrs. Pargny's Reception for House Guest.

The artistic home of Mrs. Eugene Wellington Pargny in Westminister street, was the scene of a gay little assemblage yesterday afternoon during the hours between 3 o'clock and 6. Mrs. Pargny, her mother, Mrs. William F. Tuman, and her sister, Mrs. Augustus Grange, gave an at home, and receiving with them were Mrs. T. Reed McKnight, Miss Putney Gregg and Mrs. Charles Anderews, house guests. Mrs. Pargny's assistants were chosen from the list of last year's debutantes, and included Miss Laura Smith, Miss Anne Burgwin, Miss Rebecca Friend, Miss Louise Magee, Miss Alice Reynolds, Miss Ethel Grange, Miss Ethel Byram, Miss Jeannette Lupton, Miss Elizabeth Marshall, Miss Rebecca Jennings and Miss Louisa MacKay, with Mrs. Augustus Gross MacConnell.

Mrs. Pargny wore a handsome princess gown of gray chiffon cloth, with trimmings of lace and bucks. Mrs. Tuman also wore gray chiffon, daintily trimmed with silk lace medallions and spangles. Mrs. Grange and Mrs. Andrews were in white.

The lighting in the Pargny home is dainty and effective. In the little green and white drawing room the dark green curtains were drawn, while a soft light glowed over the Dresden furniture, from two large lamps and from four tiny electric lights supported by gilded cupids, hanging from each corner of the room. The only decorations in the apartment were two tall palms and two silver vases of pink chrysanthemums.

The dining room, with its walls of dark blue and walnut wainscoting, had a centerpiece of yellow chrysanthemums in a silver epergne. On the table were four smaller vases of chrysanthemums and overhanging was a low opalescent shaded lamp. The candles in the candelabra were daintily shaded. At intervals around the walls small single electric lights gleamed through shades of opal glass.

The little library was decorated in white chrysanthemums, a vase of autumn leaves occupying a place on the piano. In this room the light is given by numerous small electric bulbs and two lamps, hanging from the timbered ceiling. From under a hood over the chimney piece shone two tiny electric lights.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Jessie Harbison, and the bridegroom had as best man his brother, John Connell of the East End. The decorations were green and white, large bunches of chrysanthemums being tastefully combined with palms, ferns and smilax. The bride wore a gown of white mousseline and carried white roses. The bridesmaid wore white mousseline and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Carroll Thornton of Youngstown, O., a cousin of the bride. Owing to the illness of the bride's grandmother, the mother of ex-Governor Brown, the wedding was very quiet, though it was planned to be a most elaborate affair. Among the Clubs

THE REGULAR monthly meeting of the board of managers of the Memorial Home for Crippled Children, will be held this morning at the home in Margaretta street, East End. Miss Louise G. Taylor will give an informal talk to the women on the method of education pursued in the school room at the home, which was opened October 1, and the purpose and results in view.

This educational feature was established a month ago at the earnest desire of Miss Mary Laughlin, the founder of the home and its chief benefactress, who made it a memorial to her father and mother. After a careful examination of the work done in various institutions of the kind in the east, an examination carried on by Miss Taylor and several others interested in the home, it was decided to institute a system of instruction in the rudiments of a common school education. At the same time the children are being given a course in numbers, basketry, drawing and color work, and both boys and girls are taught up and down. There are 10 children now in the home and their ages range from 4½ years to 10. This educational experiment is being conducted under the immediate supervision of Miss Louise Taylor, who visits the home three days each week. The work is divided so that the common school branches are taken up in the morning, when the children are brightest, and the industrial and manual training features are assigned to the afternoon. From three to four hours a day are thus employed by the children, who in the few weeks since the system was inaugurated have made surprising progress. They are taking up their new studies with an earnestness that repays Miss Laughlin and the managers for the thought they have expended upon them.

The purpose of this educational system is to prepare the children to enter the industrial world, as many of them must some day, and be able to earn their living. The instruction in the common English branches will give them a foundation, and as the various features of the manual training are carried on, the special aptitude of each child will be encouraged. One of the boys already shows a decided bent toward mathematics, others seem to find greatest pleasure in blending colors, a talent which if awakened, will be encouraged. The aim of the system is to give each child the individual attention needed for its mental and esthetic development in order that he may be able to support himself in later years and not remain the care of the state or individuals. In a bright, sunny apartment on the second floor of the home the school room is located. The windows are furnished flowering plants give a brightness of color and little tables and chairs are used instead of the usual school desks. Fortunately all of the children have the use of their hands, but several are legless and all are cripples.

MODERN TREND OF INDUSTRY

Condemned by an Episcopal Minister as Leading to Too Many Evils.

TRADES UNIONS ARE UPHELD

Some large corporations were criticised, labor unions were praised, and the tendency toward the centralization of industrial production was condemned by a speaker at the evening session of the twenty-second church congress of the Protestant Episcopal church held in Carnegie music hall last night. Some famous churchmen were to speak, and despite threatening weather, a large audience was present. Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead presided.

The "Socialization of Industrial Liberty" was the subject discussed, and those who took part were the Rev. Dr. W. D. Maxon of Detroit, the Rev. Dr. J. B. Thomas of New York and Prof. Henry Loomis Nelson of Williams college. The Rev. F. L. Paddock of New York, who was expected to speak on the subject, sent his regrets.

In speaking of the big industrial corporations, Dr. Maxon said:

"The idea of the centralizing of such gigantic power in a few masterful leaders is abhorrent to deep-rooted American principles and to the established prejudices of human freedom. The fear, or too many, must be justified, that these combinations of capital or wealth-concentration will more and more control legislation for private ends against the common good. A widespread and constant reality be shared. The recent disclosure of the audacious irresponsibility connected with the affairs of the United States Shipbuilding Company, in which whatever might be legitimate in the proper development of a great financial and industrial trust appears to have been recklessly mixed with the worst secret devices of public swindling."

Workmen Have Right to Combine.

So long as the spirit of fair play and respect for freedom control the sympathies of the American people, the trades union need fear only such foes as spring forth from within its own household.

The right of the wage workers to combine for the betterment of their condition, to maintain a higher standing of material living, is as clear and unquestionable as the right of a congregation of Christians to assemble for public worship. The struggle, maintained through a half century of struggle against tremendous odds, labor has secured a position from which it cannot be dislodged except by its own folly."

The Rev. Dr. Thomas took exceptions to the attitude of combined interests toward traditional American principles. He advocated state and municipal ownership and control of large institutions.

Prof. Nelson talked along the same lines and urged the church to awaken to the prominent part it should take in remedying the condition of men.

The morning session was spent in discussion of the theme "The Training of the Clergy." The Rev. Dr. C. Tiffany of New York presided. The Rev. Dr. Charles D. Williams of Cleveland believed the standard of requirements for the ministry should be raised, the philosophy and history of dogma should be studied.

The Rev. Alfred John Duffy of Faribault, Minn., said no seminary fulfilled its mission unless it adapted itself to the needs of the students; that there was a tendency to make a seminary a "cold storage" warehouse of fifteenth and sixteenth century methods, following 500-year-old methods of teaching.

James H. Canfield, a layman, librarian of Columbia university, said the laity believed that worse could happen than to empty some of the pulpits of the church. The laity could not understand why the clergy neglected the elements of strength existing in the laity.

The Rev. Dr. W. L. Robbins of the General Theological seminary of the church also spoke.

The Women's Protestant Episcopal Missionary society yesterday held a session. Mrs. Ormsby Phillips presiding. During the year $1,125 was donated and there is left in the treasury $217.10 in cash. The pledges of contributions for the ensuing year exceeded last year's subscriptions by $200.

The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Ormsby Phillips; vice presidents, Mrs. Cornelius Whitehead, Mrs. C. M. Mackey, Mrs. E. M. Paddock, Mrs. A. W. Arundel and Mrs. Edwin Clark; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Marcellin Adams; recording secretary, Mrs. Daniel Pomeroy; treasurer, Mrs. A. J. Wurts; librarian, Mrs. A. M. Doubleday; secretaries of the junior auxiliaries, Mrs. Frank Steel and Mrs. Andrew Braydon.

Between 4 and 6 p. m. Bishop Whitehead gave a reception to the visiting clergy at his residence.

DECLINE IN U. S. STEEL WEAKENED THE MARKET

Prices Recede to Within a Fraction of the Lowest Ever Quoted—General Market Closed Heavy. Local Stocks Remained Dull.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The eastern stock market yesterday opened firm, the largest advances being in those specialties which it was thought might be favorably affected by the result of the municipal election in New York. Foreign quotations were irregular, British consols being higher, while American railroad stocks averaged lower. London, however, was a good buyer of Baltimore & Ohio, and during the day the report was confirmed of the listing of the stock on the Berlin exchange. Later, however, London turned a seller of Union Pacific and Atchison, and it was reported that a London house which had been a dealer in American stocks had been forced to ask assistance, which had been tendered to the extent of $5,000,000. Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Metropolitan, Consolidated Gas and American Ice were the strongest in the initial dealings, these being the specialties in which Tammany is supposed to be interested. The general railway list held firm at fractional advances, while the industrials were steady. There was a considerable increase in the volume of dealings, the sales for the first two hours reaching 232,000 shares.

Around the noon hour weakness appeared in the United States Steel stocks, and the continuation of the decline finally turned the whole market downward. United States Steel common declined to 42⅞, the preferred to 87½, and the new bonds, after advancing to 70, reacted to 67⅜. These are within a small fraction of the lowest prices on record. At first the selling was attributed to a bear raid engineered by a western house. Then rumors gained currency that the corporation was about to order a cut in finished products, and finally it was reported that steel rails had been offered at $20 a ton free on board at New York for export. This would be $8 below the price at which hundreds of thousands of tons had been sold to American railroads for delivery during the latter portion of the current year and a portion of next year. There was no confirmation of these rumors, but they had their effect in depressing sentiment. The Steel Corporation is now confronted with the problem which everybody has foreseen, and its success in solving which will determine the soundness of the plan of organization. The problem involves the curtailment of production of the cruder forms of iron and steel and the maintenance of prices for finished products. Last year, when the output was smaller than the demand, and when importations became profitable, the Steel Corporation did not take advantage of the situation to exact high premiums, its announced policy being to maintain stable prices and regular delivery. At the moment the trade situation is unsatisfactory, for the reason that consumers are pursuing a hand-to-mouth policy and waiting for concessions before placing large contracts for future delivery. It remains to be seen which side will exercise the greater patience.

Rumbler Iron and Steel preferred declined to 90, the lowest price ever quoted, and the other members of this group were heavy. Amalgamated Copper, which had opened firm and higher at 80¾ and advanced to 80½, sympathized with the general weakness and sold off to 88¾. American Sugar, which had advanced to 117, declined to 115¾, and the "political" stocks lost all their early gains and something besides.

The losses in the active members of the railroad list were not large, but in the late dealings they were general. Pennsylvania sold off from 121¼ to 120⅝. Baltimore & Ohio declined from 76⅝ to 75⅝. St. Paul sold off from 140½ to 138⅞—and the Gould issues were 1@1½ per cent lower. The market did not display any rallying power and finally closed at or near the lowest prices of the day. The total sales were 431,000 shares.

Actual news of an influential character was lacking, but rumor was potential enough to check buying and start liquidation by traders who had looked for a continuation of the rally with which the week opened.

Call loan rates ruled steady at 4@4½ per cent and time loans remained firm. There was a slight recovery in sterling exchange rates, but the fact that the situation justifies importations of gold, and that shipments of the latter are actually on the way, have relieved apprehensions regarding the money market. Monday's report of gold engaged abroad for import was confirmed by the announcement from Berlin that the Reichsbank had shipped $1,250,000 on Saturday to New York. It was also reported that the National City bank had engaged an additional $500,000 for import. A London cable announced that $1,500,000 gold was bought in the open market there yesterday, presumably for shipment to New York, and that the price of gold bars had advanced slightly. Interest will be felt in the action of the governors of the Bank of England today in relation to the bank rate of discount. In addition to the gold on the way hither from Europe, $250,000 was received from Canada.

Currency shipments to the interior continue on a liberal scale, the amount sent yesterday being $1,000,000, principally to Chicago and New Orleans. Since last Friday the New York banks have lost $3,495,000 through sub-treasury operations, and a further reduction in cash reserves is looked for on Saturday.

The statement issued by the treasury department giving the amount and kinds of money in circulation in the United States on November 1 shows a total of $2,427,204,868. This is equivalent to $29 93 per capita, based upon an estimated population of 80,948,000. The increase for the month was a little less than $24,000,000, while compared with the corresponding period last year the increase is no less than $91,000,000. During October there was an increase of $7,500,000 in gold certificates, an increase of $4,500,000 in United States notes and an increase of $3,800,000 in national bank circulation.

There was a slight increase in business on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday, the sales reaching 2,288 shares. The largest dealings were in United States Steel, which followed the decline in the east. Pittsburgh Coal preferred opened firm and advanced to 62¾, but subsequently sold off to 61¾. The common stock remained unchanged at 26 and closed at that price bid. Westinghouse Electric sold unchanged at 68, but was later offered at 67⅝ and closed at 67½ bid. National Fire Proofing common and preferred were fractionally higher, and Crucible Steel common and preferred advanced slightly. Manufacturers Light and Heat was weak, declining to 27 and being offered at 26⅞ at the close. Pittsburgh Brewing sold at 25 and advanced to 25¼ bid, on the publication of the annual report, which showed the company to have had a prosperous year and to be in excellent financial shape. The rest of the market was dull and featureless.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The banks of Pittsburgh have today a larger cash reserve on hand than at any previous time in more than a decade. Reminded by the incidents which occurred two weeks ago, there was a general strengthening of positions to guard against all possible contingencies. The process entailed some hardships to borrowers on call, but the result has been a stronger situation than at any previous time in many months. Just at the moment the demand for money for stock market purposes is at a minimum. Brokers are not encouraging purchases of stocks, and where they are made they represent cash customers who pay outright. The effect of present conditions, if continued, will be a very easy money market for borrowers who can put up satisfactory collateral. A later effect will undoubtedly be a reduction in the rate of interest paid by banks on checking accounts and time deposits. This in turn will lead to a better demand for bonds and high grade investments from persons who have been allowing their surplus funds to remain in bank. Improvement in the demand for bonds is already noticeable, but only the best grades are wanted. The supply of this kind of investments is limited, and the average of market prices is lower than for several years. A hardening of the rates for borrowers will mark the turning point in the market, but the present outlook is that it will be a long time before the average of the year's prices on the stock list is reached.

The annual report of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company, submitted to stockholders yesterday, was in pleasing contrast with the report of other corporations that have recently been made public. The gross and net earnings were the largest in the history of the company, and after the liberal allowance of $50,000 for depreciation, the surplus for the year amounted to $824,450, as compared with $678,800 the previous year. The total undivided profits now amount to $2,021,724. Under normal market conditions the statement would have had a very stimulating effect upon the price of the stock.

There was no trading in local bank stocks or bonds during the day. Quotations on the band and trust company list are still suspended, but the opinion is entertained by some brokers that a resumption of dealings in this privilege would be the best advertisement that could be made to outside interests that a distinct improvement had taken place in the local situation.

The market position of Pittsburgh Coal stocks is a matter of interest in the street. While there is no question whatever about the condition of the affairs of the company, there is not likely to be any improvement in the market value of the stock until it is definitely known that peace has been established between certain factions who were contending for a point of advantage in the market. Gossip yesterday was to the effect that an agreement had been reached, but the market did not reflect any change in the situation.

There was no trading in Philadelphia Company stocks, but the common was quoted steady at 36½ bid, 37 asked.

Only five shares Westinghouse Airbrake changed hands at 131. For quotable lots 130 was bid. Westinghouse Electric advanced to 68, but reacted near the close, when it was offered at 67⅝.

The weakness in U. S. Steel in the eastern market was felt here, and checked the slight tendency which was manifested at the opening.

On sales of a little more than 300 shares, Manufacturers Light and Heat declined to 27, and then rallied at the close at 26⅞, a decline of a dollar a share, compared with Monday's final sale.

The decline in Republic Iron and Steel preferred to 90, the lowest ever quoted, was accompanied by rumors regarding the maintenance of the present rate of dividend.

A Wall street dispatch stated that the selling of U. S. Steel was by the same interest that had within the past three or four months marketed 150,000 shares of the preferred stock.

Wall street had a story that a London firm which was identified with the first steel syndicate and which is known to have had a great deal of the steel shares, was liquidating because it found it advisable to get out.

The shipments by New York banks of currency to the interior yesterday included $750,000 to New Orleans and $400,000 to Chicago.

The announcement that a small trust company in St. Louis had decided to go into liquidation had no effect upon the market.

The net earnings of Norfolk & Western for September increased $82,000.

FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH.

Bank exchanges were $3,370,777, an increase of $1,039,000.

Stock market a little more active, the sales reaching 2,288 shares.

United States Steel and Manufacturers Gas the only weak spots.

Pittsburgh Brewing advanced to 25¼ bid on the good annual report.

Pittsburgh Coal preferred advanced to 62¾, but reacted to 61⅞.

Crucible Steel and National Fire Proofing a little firmer.

IN WALL STREET.

Total sales for the day 437,100 shares of stock.

Bonds were heavy in tone, total sales (par value), $2,535,000.

Opening show of strength gave way before noon and market fell again into professional rut.

Both common and preferred United States Steel sagged to within a small fraction of previous low record.

Steel bonds also weakened and lost two points on early advance.

A batch of favorable railroad earnings helped the opening advance.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

Recent developments at the Bisbee, Ariz., properties controlled are favorable, and the belief is steadily gaining ground among copper authorities that the camp is destined to occupy an important place among the copper producing districts of the world a few years from now. The Calumet & Arizona remains the brightest star in the firmament of Warren district properties. The wonderful record of this property will be hard to equal.

Work on the Lake Superior & Pittsburg and Calumet & Pittsburgh, both of which immediately adjoin the Calumet & Arizona, and are under the same management, indicates that the extent of the Bisbee ore deposit is yet to be defined. There are a large number of other companies, notably the Dunbar & Pittsburgh, Higgins, Wolverine & Arizona, Calumet & Bisbee, Calumet Cochise and Junction which have fighting chances of making good mines.

This week the Quincy Mining Company will assume active charge of its smelting works on Portage lake, a short distance from the mine. The contract with the Quincy Mining Company, lessee and manager of the plant for the last five years, has expired.

Construction work on the portion of the Calumet & Hecla stamp mills recently burned is completed. A force of men is now engaged on the interior work, which will require several months. The company is rebuilding its entire milling plant at Lake Linden. Five heads are under repair at one time and it is calculated that four years will be consumed before the entire plant is finished. The new mill, which has been in commission several months, gives excellent results.

The strike made on the 1,400-foot level of the Daly-Judge consists of ounce values, 170 per cent lead and 60 ounces silver, and 22 per cent copper-ore, carrying 400 ounces of silver.

The most important news of the week from Uintic district is to the effect that the workings of the Centennial-Eureka have successfully been linked up at their connection with the Bullion-Beck. The work has been resumed on the mine. The surface of the Bullion-Beck believes that the fire is out, and it is probable that work will be resumed in all four of the properties before many days.

The Standard Ore Company, of Helena, represented by J. Campbell Corp, which has secured control of the famous Jay Gould group has decided to put in a 60-stamp mill instead of the 20-stamp mill at first planned, as well as a cyanide plant. It is said that there is ore enough blocked out in the mines to keep the mill running for several years.

PIG IRON SALES ARE INCREASED

Large Offerings of Southern Iron Keep the Situation Unsettled and Prices Weak.

SMALL OUTPUT TO CONTINUE

Blast Furnace Committee Will Meet Tomorrow—Lower Prices for Finished Steel May Rule Next Year—Producers Seeking Export Business.

Not only have there been more inquiries for pig iron during the past week, but there has been an improvement in the amount of actual business transacted. Orders for Bessemer, while not agreeing enough to make any considerable showing in busy seasons, were much better than for any like period during the last month or two, although prices show some additional softening. One producer reports an order received for 3,000 tons and two others for 500 tons each, all taken at figures which averaged $13.75 per ton Pittsburgh. Market values now may be quoted at a range of $13 50 to $13 75 Pittsburgh, which makes the range under $15 at valley furnaces. There is not much being done in grey forge iron, but sales which have been made indicate that the market stands at about $14 a ton, Pittsburgh, with some selling below that price, and an occasional small lot at slightly higher figures. Sales of foundry iron are more frequent than for some time, and transactions involving 500 to 1,000 tons are reported, at prices which range from $15 to $15 25 Pittsburgh, for small lots, larger orders having been taken at 50 cents a ton lower than these figures.

Manufacturers of pig iron assert that it is the condition of affairs in the south which is acting as the dead weight upon the market. Southern producers have large accumulations of iron, and are naming all sorts of prices to make sales. This has its influence upon the northern product, for consumers will buy the southern iron, and are doing this while waiting for northern furnaces to further reduce prices. Conditions seem to be firmer in the northern section, however, since the curtailment of production, and furnace owners are inclined to continue the restriction. This will be kept up until the stimulus given the situation is sufficient to establish a permanently stronger tone.

Committee Meets Tomorrow.

The members of the Central west Blast furnace pig iron restriction committee, who were to have met in this city on Tuesday, failed to get together at that time, and the meeting was postponed until tomorrow, when it is expected there will be a meeting at which the situation will be thoroughly canvassed, and a decision reached as to whether the present rate of production is small enough or whether it would be better to bring down the output to 60 or even 50 per cent rather than to 75 per cent, which is the present figure. The actual production which has been made is probably about 85 per cent, and operators are willing to make even a further cut if necessary. Those who do not wish to bank furnaces prefer running them slowly, and taking out less than the possible quantity of metal. The committee has full power to act, and will use this power in ordering what it thought best to restore the market to a settled condition. In the meantime consumption is going on, as is shown by the excellent reports from hardwood lumber, and from the large number of manufacturers of finished materials that is approaching the danger line. It is the belief of close observers of the situation that the furnaces on the part of the consumer to wait until entirely convinced that prices have touched bottom, and then buy freely at the lower range of figures which will then be established, and which will mean more business done next year as during recent high tide prosperity, but manufacturers believe there will be a general starting up by the first of the year, which will mean a large amount of business to be done, but on a lower basis of prices.

Low Prices Possible.

Producers of finished steel in the various lines have been holding prices to the range which has been in existence for some time, but they will not assert that these figures are to be continued indefinitely. Lower prices for raw material will mean a correction also in finished lines, and a readjustment of wages will follow. That lower prices for everything are likely in the near future seems to be the general opinion, and it is not supposed from this that there will be radical and sweeping cuts which will upset conditions more than at present, but a gradual getting down to a basis more in keeping with the contracted amount of business.

Manufacturers are reaching out more for foreign trade than they have done for several years, and with success. The Steel Corporation has taken a large order for sheet bars from England, on which shipments are to begin soon, the ultimate destination not having been made public, but indications favoring South Wales as the probable point. Exports of wire and wire nails are increasing, while wire rods and other lines are finding markets in other parts of the world.

The billet question has made no change in nominal prices, and claims to be supporting the list, but it is openly asserted by independent producers that either open hearth or Bessemer billets can be purchased in any quality desired on a basis of $23 50, Pittsburgh.

Business in all finished lines remains about as it was a week ago. Orders from day to day without perceptible change to the amount per week which has ruled for a month, and producers cannot see much difference in the quantity of business done one way or the other. Prices remain as before.

Hardware Business Good.

Hardware business continues to move along in very good shape, orders from all sections coming in for good quantities and good specifications, both from salesmen and direct from customers. The present week seems to show quite an increase in the volume and number of these orders, indicating that business of the fall is rolling along in the lower and country districts in very good shape. Orders for wire nails and wire continue to come in very good volume and apparently for immediate shipment. House furnishing goods for date wants. Houses for this time of year continue to move out in excellent quantities, some very large sales being noted in fenders, coal hods, Albion stoves, Kalin gas stoves and ranges, sheet iron and goods of like kind. A very large business also is being done in loaded shells, shotguns and rifles, sportsmen evidently having all the benefits of a good season. Albion tools continue to move in good quantities, showing mechanics of various kinds to be well employed. Orders for window glass continue to come in in good number and for good quantities, as stocks are small and users and dealers are buying for their wants. Builders' hardware continues to move out at about the usual rate, showing that consumers of this class of hardware to be selling. Prices for hardware generally are firm, some lines showing quite an advance, more particularly for the coming season.

SOUTHERN PRODUCERS HAVE AGAIN GIVEN WAY

Transactions Made on Basis of $9 50 for No. 2 Foundry, Birmingham.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The Iron Age tomorrow will say: A number of the southern producers have again given way, so that transactions on the basis of $9 50 for No. 2 foundry Birmingham, have been made on a fairly liberal scale. Our Cincinnati correspondent reports one sale for export of a lot of 10,000 tons of southern pig on the basis of $9 50 for No. 2 foundry and $8 50 for gray forge. From Birmingham we hear of two small sales, also destined to Great Britain. The demand from the Mediterranean is said to be very light.

In Cincinnati one large smelting interest is seller this week took 15,000 tons on the basis of $9 45 for No. 2.

The price set by the southern producers must have wide-spread effects, since there can be no hope now for more to come for many furnaces there and in other parts of the country to continue in operation. Natural causes are bringing about what agreements have failed to do either in the south or in the east. The foundry product is little affected by what is being done in the central west.

Prices in the Birmingham district have now reached a point where the export business seems nearly possible without any special sacrifice, and that in itself is a warning to buyers not to press too long. It is thoroughly well understood that the yards of the foundries are exceptionally bare, and during the last week there have been many signs that some melters are realizing this. The talk of the enormous loss of production has little influence upon buyers, yet the suddenness of the decline will cause many producers to pause who might otherwise have gone on hoping against hope.

There are a good many rumors relating to export sales of finished iron and steel. We cannot hear that much has been done, nor has the inducement been tempting. Some minor sales of steel rails have been made, among them a 4,000-ton lot to Japan and about 5,000 tons to Corea. But a South American order was lost. The railmakers are to meet tomorrow.

Reports relating to finished material in the domestic markets are not favorable. Cut nails have been reduced 25 cents a keg in price. Concerted action to curtail the advertising made through the aid of crowding tonnage into distant markets. Lower prices have been made on sheets.

The steel billet still in session as we go to press. There is some curiosity in the trade relative to the methods to be used to make "official" prices effective now which have been ignored for some time past.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Coffee futures opened steady at a decline of 15@25 points under heavy liquidation which seemed largely for the account of a leading cotton exchange house having New Orleans connections. A firmer tone was encouraged by the weakness of European cables, more favorable crop news and an estimate by a leading Brazilian authority that the receipts at Rio and Santos for November will equal 1,200,000 bags, or just about the same as last year. A good buying interest was developed at the decline, however, some of which is credited to foreign operations. The selling was through Wall street houses recently identified with the bull movement, and the market was finally steady, 5 to 15 points net lower. Sales were 108,500 bags, including November at 5.40@5.45c; December, 5.45@5.50c; January, 5.50@5.55c; February, 5.70@5.75c; March, 5.70@5.85c; May, 5.85@6.00c; June, 5.90@5.95c; July, 6.05@6.10c; September, 6.20@6.25c. Sugar—Raw, steady; fair refining, 3¾c; centrifugal, 96 test, 3¾c; molasses sugar, 3½c; refined steady; crushed, 5.35c; powdered, 4.85c; granulated, 4.70c.

QUIET PREVAILS IN THE PRODUCE MARKET

Rye Straw Scarce at Higher Quotations—Rabbits Abundant at Lower Prices.

A quiet market ruled yesterday, and there were few changes made in quotations anywhere throughout the list. Day receipts were fairly heavy, but prices were firm, the only change made being a slight contraction of the range for No. 2 timothy, which hardly amounted to a decline, being more in the nature of a readjustment. Rye straw advanced sharply, and is very strong, with stock wanted badly. Buyers are after straw of this kind, and cannot be supplied very little of it having come to this market for a long time.

Grocery trade was steady and fairly good, although there was no rush to buy. Flour is arriving more freely than it did a few days ago, but there is not yet enough to fill all orders promptly. Coffee is steady, and sugar is unchanged. Canned corn is still very scarce, and peas are strong. Tomatoes are weak and slow.

Fresh vegetables are getting scarcer and scarcer the supply of home-grown stock being reduced to a very limited one. A few tomatoes are offering, and any stock at all approaching fancy commands $1 25 a chip. Egg plant is coming forward in limited quantity, and brings almost any price which the shipper chooses to ask, for it is nearly done. String beans are also arriving from New York, home supplies being exhausted. Potatoes hold their own as quoted, with demand for immediate requirement only, purchases for winter storing being very backward. Concord grapes are firm as quoted, with supplies limited.

The firm conditions which have characterized the egg situation still prevail, with fresh stock scarce. Dealers are getting 27 cents for selects, and are striving to obtain 28 cents, with some degree of success. Storage eggs are being brought out and sold at 21 cents to 23 cents. Demand is moderate for all grades. Cheese is firm as quoted, while butter is slow and easy.

There is a small demand for nuts this week, but prices have changed very little, except chestnuts, which are lower. Tropical fruits hold their own, with receipts moderate.

Rabbits are plentiful and lower, while poultry is unchanged.

GOT OVATION IN HIS HOME TOWN

Remarkable Demonstration for Former Colonial Secretary Chamberlain in Birmingham.

SPOKE TO GREAT AUDIENCE

Appeal to Englishmen to Repeal Invasion of American Manufacturers. Claimed Cobden's Predictions of United States Had Not Been Verified.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Joseph Chamberlain made a speech tonight to 9,000 of his fellow townsmen, at Bingley hall, Birmingham. It was by far the largest audience the former colonial secretary had faced during the recent campaign and the enthusiasm, naturally, exceeded the remarkable scenes witnessed in the other cities and was emphasized by the Chamberlainite victory at yesterday's municipal election in Birmingham. Mr. Chamberlain was accompanied on the platform by many prominent persons. As he rose to speak he was given a great reception, the cheering and singing of "For He is a Jolly Good Fellow" lasting many minutes.

After dealing with conditions during the past fifty years under free trade, and quoting figures to sustain his argument, Mr. Chamberlain commented on Cobden's position and quoted Cobden as saying that their workmen would go back to the land and dig and delve for us.

Americans, however, said Mr. Chamberlain, had not so conceived their national destiny and did not believe that they were created by providence to dig and delve and plow for the benefit of Great Britain. They knew that they had resources of their own and behind the tariff wall they had built up their industries until they had reached that stage where, unsatisfied with extent of their own markets, they were invading those of the United Kingdom.

Mr. Chamberlain said he did not blame the United States, but he appealed to Englishmen to say whether they would adhere to the old system or adopt another which would prevent the American invasion.

Reverting to the question of a preferential tariff for the colonies, Mr. Chamberlain charged those opposed to his plans with being "Little Englanders," lacking in the desire to bring the colonies closer to the mother country and preferring to do more for strangers than for their own flesh and blood. He said that the leaders of the opposition failed to appreciate the value of imperial unity and only valued the unity of the Liberal party. He instanced the jewelry, brass, bicycles and button trades of Birmingham as suffering from the dumping process.

Mr. Chamberlain spoke for nearly two hours, in the main repeating his former arguments and appealing to the patriotism and self-interest of the people of the United Kingdom to sustain his fiscal project.

GRANTED AN INCREASE.

San Francisco Street Railway Contractors Given an Advance of 10 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The decision of the commission in the San Francisco street railway wage arbitration handed down today awards an increase of 10 per cent in wages to employes employed for two years prior to April 1, 1903, and of five per cent to those of less service. Hours were left unchanged and the wage rate was deemed effected from May 1, 1902 to May 1, 1904. The award was written by Oscar S. Straus and assented to by V. D. Dishon, Col. Patrick Calhoun declining to concur.

UNUSUAL PRECAUTIONS FOR SAFETY OF CZAR

Householders Not Allowed at Upper Windows While Two Emperors Were Passing.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

WIESBADEN, PRUSSIA, Nov. 4.—About 12,000 troops occupied the principal thoroughfares of Wiesbaden today while awaiting the arrival of the czar and some hundreds of police mingled with the rather small crowds behind the military lines. Precautions for the safety of imperial visitors on this occasion seem to be extraordinary. The police forbade householders to stand on their balconies or look out of the windows above the ground floor.

The streets in the immediate vicinity of the castle were kept clear. Even veteran soldiers, who were to take part in the reception of the Russian sovereign were not allowed in those districts.

The German emperor will make his return visit to Wolfgarten tomorrow, where the two sovereigns and Chancellor Von Buellow and Foreign Minister Lamsdorff will have an opportunity to confer on the political situation.

WILL TRY TO SECURE NATIONAL CONVENTION

The joint committee of councils to further the movement to secure the national Republican convention, will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock in select council chamber. The resolution creating the committee invited the mayor and the other executive officers of the city to join with councils in creating interest in the matter. The committee is composed of Select Councilmen S. J. Wainwright, Dr. John A. Murphy, William B. Stanley, Robert H. Douglas and John Costello, and Common Councilmen W. H. Stevenson, Thomas O'Brien, Charles C. Schad, M. G. Leslie, William C. Reitz and J. F. Shaw. President John S. Lambie, of select council and President Charles S. Crawford of common council are ex officio members of the committee.

Triple Tragedy in Oklahoma.

STROUD, OKLA., Nov. 4.—Nine miles southwest of Stroud, an unknown man rode up to the house of Mrs. Ames, shot and killed Mrs. Ames and the hired man, Henry Jackson, and seriously wounded Miss Ames, aged 15, shooting her in the shoulder. The murderer escaped. The motive is not known.

LEE TOLD OF BRIBING COMMITTEE OF SENATORS

Former Lieutenant Governor of Missouri Testifies to Giving Money to Defeat Bill.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., Nov. 4.—In the trial of Senator Farris, charged with bribery, former Lieutenant Governor John A. Lee took the stand today. He said he asked Farris to help defeat the bill to repeal the law prohibiting the use of alum in baking powder.

Farris, the witness testified, said it could be easily done by holding the bill in committee, but that the bill was an important one, and that the boys of the committee needed money. He wanted $7,000, of which $5,000 was to go to each of six members of the committee of jurisprudence of the senate and $1,000 to the senator who introduced the bill.

Lee arranged by telephone and telegraph, he said, with Daniel J. Kelly to get the money. A check for $5,000 was received by Lee and deposited in the American Exchange bank of St. Louis. The bill was defeated and he drew out $7,000 of the money and gave it to Senator Farris in his room at the Laclede hotel. Farris divided the money into packages of $1,000 each. Lee got $1,500 for his interest in the matter.

LABORERS IN A RIOT.

Foreigners Attack Illinois Steel Company's Plant When Discharged.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Over 100 Poles and Italians became riotous in their demands for work at the plant of the Illinois Steel Company in South Chicago today, hurling clubs and stones through windows and trying to batter down the gates to gain entrance to the works. Several were injured before they were dispersed by the police. The rioters were former employes of the steel mills who were brought to South Chicago from other cities and afterward discharged.

Preparing a Christmas Box.

The young people's branch of the missionary societies of the Presbyterian churches of Pittsburgh and Allegheny held their regular monthly meeting in the Second Presbyterian church yesterday. The Rev. Dr. Lawson, a missionary from India, told of the work done and the prospects in that field. A committee was appointed to prepare the annual Christmas box, which will be sent to Alabama.
